THOUSANDS OF REFUGEES ARE DAILY LEAVING QUAKE AREA

Official Inquiry Discloses That Early Estimates of Loss of Life in Tokio's Poorest District Have Not Been Exaggerated—Flames Trapped Many.

RUINS ARE REPORTED FILLED WITH DEAD

Partial Street Car Service Is Resumed in Capital—Typhus and Other Epidemics Have Appeared in Two Hospitals.

TOKIO, Sept. 11.—Investigation by the authorities of the Honjo district, that part of Tokio which is hemmed in by the sea and Sumida River and by canals, showed that the previous estimates of loss of life there have not been exaggerated. The residents of this, the poorest quarter of the capital, were trapped by the flames which followed the earthquake. The ruins throughout the district are crowded with dead, the majority of whom, it is believed, were suffocated. In many instances it has been discovered that the clothing of the victims was not even burned.

In various parts of Tokio thousands of bodies are being stacked for cremation. Six big emergency crematoriums have been established and the cremation of bodies is proceeding night and day. Up to yesterday 23,000 bodies had been recovered in Yokohama. Of the 180,000 homeless in that city at least half are said to have departed. The condition of those who remained is improving.

Tokio Street Cars Resume. The street cars in Tokio have resumed operation from the financial district to the western suburbs. Temporary barracks to care for the homeless are being erected in various parts of the city.

Brig-Gen. Frank McCoy of the United States Army has arrived and begun the assembling of Filipino residents in Tokio who desire to return to the Philippines. Most of them are students, however, and so far few applications have been made for return home.

Typhus and other epidemics have appeared in the Okubo and Hiroo hospitals and in the conductors' quarters of the Aoyama tramway, where 500 sick and wounded have been collected. Many of the earthquake victims who were disinfected were removed to a temporary hospital established at the Ueno exposition site.

It is said that approximately 100,000 refugees are leaving the capital each day.

Would Stabilize Finances. It is announced that the heads of various Japanese insurance companies have decided to pay their full insurance losses, not availing themselves of the earthquake clauses in their policies.

The banks have asked the Government to advance 1,500,000,000 yen in order to stabilize the financial situation. Reconstruction, reorganization and recovery are now the watchwords of the Japanese people. The newspapers that have resumed publication are printing lavish editorials of gratitude for the world-wide sympathy that has been accorded Japan.

Rail Traffic Restored. Although the chief centers of business in Tokio and Yokohama were completely destroyed, order is being maintained.

Rich Egyptian and His Widow on Trial for Shooting Him to Death

MME. MARIE FAHMY.

WIFE ON TRIAL FOR KILLING PSEUDO PRINCE

Shot Husband, Fahmy Bey, at London Hotel During Thunderstorm.

SPECIAL CABLE TO THE POST-DISPATCH AND THE NEW YORK WORLD. (Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The "thunderstorm" killing at the Savoy Hotel, July 9, when Mme. Marie Fahmy, Parisian beauty, shot her husband, the pseudo-Egyptian Prince, Fahmy Bey, to death in a corridor during thunderclaps that prevented the shots from being heard, reached the trial stage at Old Bailey yesterday, when the wife commenced her fight for life before a jury that includes two women of her counsel and the first evidence taken made it clear that the defense would be that the wife was goaded to the act by the persistent cruelty of her husband. The defendant will take the stand. It was admitted by the secretary that on a trip up the Nile in Fahmy's yacht the husband locked his wife in a room and that they quarreled violently throughout the trip.

Counsel read the following letter, written by Fahmy to Cairo to his wife's sister: "Just now I am engaged in training her (his wife). Yesterday, to begin, I did not come in to lunch nor dinner, and I also left her at the theater. This will teach her, I hope, to respect my wishes. With women one must act with energy and be severe—no bad habits. We still lead the same life of which you are aware—opera, theaters, disputes, high words and perverseness."

Sir Edward asked the witness, giving hint of testimony to come: "Was Fahmy a womanizer, the habit of beating women?" The secretary denied this. The wife's lawyer suggested in other questions that Fahmy beat and kicked his wife and threatened to throw her into the Thames when they were in London, and that on the morning he was killed Fahmy told his wife to go to the devil and that in 24 hours she would be dead. The witness did not affirm these suggestions.

Further light on the defense was thrown when, toward the end of the day's session, the wife's lawyer put in evidence a cartoon of Fahmy, dead; his secretary, Enani, and another man, over which was written: "The light, the shadow of the light and shadow of the shadow of the light." Judge Risby Swift said the only suggestion in the cartoon was that the three men depicted were inseparable.

UNCONFIRMED REPORT IN BERLIN OF ASSASSINATION OF TROTSKY

Central News Dispatch to London Tells of Rumor Emanating From Moscow.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—A Central News dispatch from Berlin says it is reported from Moscow that Leon Trotsky, the Russian soviet war minister, has been assassinated. No details are given. There is no confirmation of the report.

Reports of the death by violence of otherwise of Premier Lenin, War Minister Trotsky and other prominent members of the Russian soviet government have frequently been circulated, usually coming through dubious channels. Serious reports regarding the condition of Trotsky's health were current early this year, but the news dispatches since have shown him pursuing his usual activities.

ORDERS GRAND JURY INVESTIGATION OF SLOT MACHINES

Circuit Judge Calhoun Says Their Operation Appears to Violate Gambling Laws of State.

REFERS TO DECISION IN INJUNCTION CASE

Many Children, as Well as Adults, Apparently Victims of Law Violators, Members of Jury Are Told.

A Grand Jury investigation of the presence of slot machines in many St. Louis stores in alleged violation of gambling laws of the State was ordered today by Circuit Judge Calhoun. He delivered special instructions to the Grand Jury following a conference with Circuit Attorney Sidener.

As is known, Circuit Judge Hall yesterday dissolved a temporary restraining order, which had for several months prevented the police from interfering with the slot machines. Judge Hall, in his order, said the slot machines constituted a temptation to children to gamble.

Judge Calhoun in his instructions said: "There has just been brought to light, through the publication in the public press of a recent Circuit Court decision, a situation where it appears that the laws of this State in reference to gambling have been violated, and many children, as well as adults, have been the victims of these violations of our laws."

Gambling Statutes Cited. "The Court, therefore, calls your attention to the laws of the State of Missouri in respect to gambling." Sections of the statutes relating to the keeping of gaming devices and gaming houses were cited by the judge.

"The court, accordingly," continued Judge Calhoun, "directs you to make a searching investigation into the matter of this alleged gambling and where you are satisfied that the law has been violated, you will do your duty as well as a service to the public, by bringing a stop to such violation of the law by returning and finding indictments against the person or persons connected therewith."

Circuit Attorney Sidener expects to confer during the day with police officials on violations of the gambling laws in the use of slot machines.

Arrests Ordered By Police Chief. Chief of Police O'Brien yesterday ordered that all storekeepers be arrested if slot machines were found in their establishments after 7 a. m. Persons controlling the slot machines are reported to have visited stores and other places yesterday and removed coins from the machines and later wagons were sent to collect the machines.

Some of the machines are equipped with mint-vending devices which deliver a package of mint with each coin placed in the machine. The Police Department is expecting an opinion from the City Counselor's office as to whether these machines constitute a violation of law.

Circuit Attorney Sidener said today that it would establish a bad precedent if owners of the slot machines were permitted to come into the community, tie up enforcement of criminal laws with an injunction, and then remove their apparatus with the dissolution of the injunction.

He said his office would make every effort to prosecute all persons connected with the operation of slot machines, whether they be politicians or outsiders here only for the money. He said he would endeavor to ascertain the identity of the "higher-ups" and investigate their responsibility under the gambling laws.

WILLIAM M'GEE, SHOT IN GANG WAR, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Member of State Legislature Second to Succumb to Wounds as Result of Break in Egan-Hogan Truce.

INSISTED HE DIDN'T KNOW ASSAILANTS

Detectives Still Searching for Reputed Woman Owner of Auto From Which Shots Were Fired.

The death today of William McGee, member of the State Legislature, the second man to lose his life as a result of the latest outbreak in the Egan-Hogan gang feud, was followed by a police order for the arrest, "by all means," of Tess Gallagher, the girl friend of one of the most troublesome members of the Egan gang.

Detectives remained at McGee's bedside at city hospital until he died at 4:55 a. m. today in the hope of obtaining information from him that might throw some light on the identity of the men in the automobile who fired shots from pistols at Jefferson and Cass avenues Sunday night and instantly killed Elmer Malone, a bystander.

But McGee insisted that he did not know the slayers. At times when he was in delirium the detectives bent close to catch the words he muttered, but he did not say anything to help them in their investigation. His mother talked to him, and he told her the same story that he told policemen Sunday night.

Car or Owner Not Found. Tess Gallagher was the recorded owner of the blue Jewett touring car from which the shots were fired, and the police have been unable to find her or her automobile, although they have hunted in places where she formerly spent her time.

That the shots were intended for "Jimmie" Hogan, whom the Eganites have made several attempts to "get," the police say there is no doubt. Several persons have said that they saw Hogan on the sidewalk when the shooting occurred and that he later ran away, holding his right arm as though he might have been wounded.

"Jimmie" Hogan was marked for vengeance for the murder of Constable William T. Egan, former head of the Egan gang, and Egan's followers were said to have remarked that the only way "Jimmie" Hogan could escape death was by serving the 15 years' penitentiary sentence imposed for bank robbery, which the State Supreme Court set aside on a technicality.

Hit From Egan Gang. And all the time "Jimmie" Hogan was hiding out from the Egan gang. Recently detectives discovered that he was occupying a flat over a blacksmith shop at 2430 Cass avenue, where McGee was employed as a horse shoer. McGee was not considered a bodyguard for Hogan, but the latter never left the flat except to go to the shop below.

Sunday night Hogan is said to have ventured into his uncle's saloon at the southwest corner of Jefferson and Cass. Detectives saw him there early in the evening. He did not appear to be disturbed. Perhaps the fact that a truce had extended over a period of months made him careless. Friends expressed surprise that he had strayed from his hiding place.

"Jimmie" Hogan had been around the saloon only an hour or so when the automobile, speeding east on Cass, expressed surprise that he had hesitated long enough for

Z R-1, GIANT AIRSHIP FLIES OVER NEW YORK AS THOUSANDS WATCH

ENDS LIFE AFTER AUTO KILLS BOY; LATER IS EXONERATED

Edward D. Wagner, Worried and Unable to Sleep, Shoots Himself in Basement of Home.

Edward J. Wagner, 45 years old, a boiler maker, of 1030 Leona avenue, University City, whose automobile Saturday struck and fatally injured a 14-year-old boy, shot and killed himself with a revolver in the basement of his home at 5 a. m. today. A St. Louis coroner's jury exonerated Wagner at an inquest at 9 a. m.

Saturday morning Wagner's machine knocked Wilbur Tibbles, 14 years old, of 2332 Montgomery street, from his bicycle at Montgomery and Parnell streets. The boy said he was uninjured and went to his home, according to a statement to police by Wagner. Later in the day the boy complained of pains in his head and he died at 1:40 a. m. Sunday. Richard Christian, 13 years old, 2520 Montgomery street, and other witnesses at the inquest, this morning said that Wilbur was riding on the wrong side of the street and was struck by Wagner's machine, which turned east into Montgomery street from Parnell street. Wagner's son appeared at the inquest and announced that his father had killed himself.

Wagner's body was found shortly after 5 a. m. by his sister, Mrs. John Keefe, who occupies the lower floor of the Leona avenue address. An inquest was held at the Wagner home this morning and a verdict of suicide returned.

Wagner's widow, Mrs. Martha

Wagner, in a statement to Coroner Bracy said:

"Edward had been unable to sleep since the accident. He worried terribly over the death of the boy, and although he went to his work yesterday, he was unable to sleep last night. He got up about 4:30 this morning, telling me he was going to make some coffee. Instead of going to the kitchen, he went to the basement. I then dressed and went to the store. Before I returned his body found him dead." Two sons and a daughter also survive Wagner.

Mrs. Keefe was awakened by a shot in the basement shortly after 5 a. m. and found her brother's body on the basement floor with a bullet wound in the head. A .44-caliber revolver was at his side.

After the accident Saturday, when the boy's injuries became known, Wagner was traced through his license number. Several children witnessing the accident had told police that they believed Wagner's 15-year-old son, who occupied the front seat of the car with his father, was driving the car as the wheels were "wobbling." When questioned by the police Wagner insisted that he and not his son was the driver. He explained that he had driven away only after he had found the boy apparently uninjured. None of the witnesses testifying today would state definitely that Wagner's son was the driver. All agreed that the machine had stopped following the accident and that Wagner had talked to the boy.

ODDS AGAINST GOV. SMITH QUOTED AT 20 TO 1 BY BROKERS

Offer to Bet $1000 Against $3000 That Ford Will Be Elected if Nominated, Without Takers.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Al Smith, 20 to 1; Hiram Johnson, 5 to 1; William Hayward, 5 to 1; Henry Ford, 3 to 1.

The above odds were quoted by the brokerage house of W. L. Darnell & Co., 44 Broad street, last night in the presidential and gubernatorial sweepstakes.

There is $1000 on deposit with the brokers to be laid against $20,000 that Gov. Smith will be elected President; $500 was bet against $2500 yesterday that Senator Hiram Johnson will receive the Republican nomination for President; the same amount at the same odds was laid that Hayward will be the Republican nominee for Governor of New York.

An offer to bet $1000 against $2000 that Henry Ford will be elected if nominated on either Republican or Democratic ticket remained uncovered.

"BRITISH NAVY GOING DRY"

Toast to His Majesty in Water Told of by Officer.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The British navy is fast going dry, declared Rear Admiral W. J. Anstey, retired English naval officer, for many years attached to the Admiralty in London, on his arrival here on the steamship Cameronia, Admiral Anstey, who asserted the temperance movement came from the officers themselves, continued:

"When I first became an officer there was heavy drinking. Today it is quite different. In the last dinner I attended on one of his majesty's ships, out of all the officers present who drank the King's toast, only two took port and the rest drank water. There is much less drinking in the navy among the sailors because of temperance pledges and educational work."

CORNERED BEEF FOR THE PRINCE

Chinese to Cook for Him on Visit to Canada.

By the Associated Press.
TORONTO, Ontario, Sept. 11.—It will be cornered beef and cabbage, boarding-house hash and boiled potatoes for the Prince of Wales when he places his feet under the chow table of "Edward Prince" ranch near High River, Alberta, next Saturday. At the ranch is one Japanese cook, Jimmie Shimabae, who learned the culinary art by opening cans for the Canadian Army in France.

"Me no cook fancy foods," Jimmie told newspaper men, "excepting Irish beef stew and Chinese chop suey."

Roofs Crowded With Spectators When New United States Navy Dirigible Passes Over Metropolis—Harbor Vessels Play Serrade on Their Whistles.

CUTS GRACEFUL CIRCLES IN SKY

Craft Turns With Remarkable Abruptness for Her Size—Hum of Motors Heard Above Roar of the City.

By the Associated Press.
WOODBURY, N. J., Sept. 11.—The giant airship, ZR-1, today flew up from her hangar in Lakehurst, N. J., to visit New York. New York was on its toes to greet her. Roofs, visible for miles from the Woolworth Tower, were crowded with spectators. In the streets below thousands could be seen craning their necks as they gazed upward out of the deep canyons.

The giant craft first was sighted from the tower after she had passed over quarantine and headed up the harbor toward the Statue of Liberty.

The sun gleamed on the dirigible's sleek gray sides and her rudder, with its great streaks of red, white and blue, glistened in the rays.

The dirigible passed Sandy Hook, shortly after 11 o'clock, heading northward toward New York. She was flying at an altitude of about 1000 feet.

Escorted By 5 Seaplanes. The ZR-1 paid a visit to Brooklyn and then returned to Manhattan, winding her way uptown again. She cut graceful circles in the sky, turning with remarkable abruptness for her size, as if to prove she could wriggle through aerial traffic as skillfully as agile taxis dodge surface cars and pedestrians thousands of feet below her.

Five seaplanes, gray as the airship they escorted, circled the ZR-1 as she passed over the tip of Manhattan, glided up the island and disappeared in the haze far up the Hudson.

The escorting planes circled the airship as she came up the harbor. Their speed so exceeded that of their overgrown sister that they were forced to cut capers in the air in order not to leave her far behind.

The ZR-1 rode on an even keel, most of the time. As she passed Mistress Liberty, however, she dipped her prow quite perceptibly. Down went her bow as she turned northwest toward the Hudson, following the river on her voyage uptown.

Only five of her six motors were working as she passed over the city, but their hum could be heard indoors even above the usual roar of the city.

The giant airship returned to the tip of Manhattan after a stately voyage of half an hour over the city. On her way up the island the airship flew close to the Statue of Liberty, showering the streets with pamphlets describing her construction. Finally, she turned again and passed over Battery Park, thronged with spectators, over the harbor, dotted with craft; past the Statue of Liberty and through the narrows, until she was in the light haze. Ships in the harbor played a serrade on their whistles as the "Leviathan of the air" sped away.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—The ZR-1 paid her scheduled visit to Philadelphia this afternoon, entering the city at the northeastern limit shortly after 2 p. m. and sailing down over the Delaware River toward the center of the city.

The airship was 5200 feet up over the navy yard. Near the old Hog Island ship yard, just below the navy yard, the ZR-1 made a sweeping turn and headed directly north.

MUSSOLINI TO ANNEX FUME WITHIN WEEK, PARIS HEARS

Premier Will Issue Proclamation About Sept. 15, According to Reliable Sources—Jugo-Slavia Governor Said to Be Planning to Make No Serious Protest.

ITALY LIKELY TO REFUSE MEDIATION

Prepared to Employ Forceful Means If Necessary in Dispute Over Adriatic Port—Corfu to Be Held Until Payment Is Made.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 11.—It is understood from information gathered in reliable sources that Premier Mussolini will proclaim the annexation of Fiume to Italy within a week, probably about Sept. 15. The Governor of Jugo-Slavia is represented as being aware of Mussolini's intention and as intending to make no serious protest, provided Porto Barro and Sussak, adjacent, are not directly affected.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Sept. 11.—Best informed opinion here is that Italy will refuse any mediation of the settlement of the Fiume question with Jugo-Slavia, as proposed by the latter. Italy, it is declared, intends to settle directly with Jugo-Slavia, in line with the demands made for a settlement setting Sept. 15 as the date for a reply, even employing forceful means if necessary, will leave Corfu only after the necessary payment is made.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The British Government has received information that Premier Mussolini does not accept the interpretation of the decision of the Council of Ambassadors on which the British thought there had been agreement. Italy, it now appears, will leave Corfu only after the investigation into the Albanian murders has been completed and Greek reparations paid, which means weeks hence. There is a tendency here to demand again that the League of Nations act to get Italy out of Corfu.

Mussolini obviously has the powers of the Adriatic. He will preserve silence as to what he means by declaring that unless the Jugo-Slavs agree to a modification of the Rapallo treaty, fixing the status of Fiume by Sept. 15, he will reserve the right to take action.

Belgrade professes to be optimistic. Military preparations have led to a strong statement from the French Minister at Sofia, who said in event of an attack on Serbia, France would support the Serbs actively.

The Serbian Minister at Sofia warned Bulgaria Monday that in the event of a violation of the Berne frontier, the Serbs in pursuit would not stop at the Bulgarian frontier.

League to Be Asked to Protect Jugo-Slavia's Interests.

BERGHAUSEN, Sept. 11.—The Cabinet has sent instructions to M. Pachitch, Minister of Foreign Affairs and Serbian delegate to the League of Nations in Geneva, to request the League Assembly to take measures necessary to protect Jugo-Slavia's interests in view of the general situation in the Adriatic and preparations for aggression on the part of the Bulgarian comitads (irregulars) in Southern Serbia.

HEROISM OF U. S. NAVAL OFFICERS AFTER QUAKE DESCRIBED BY REFUGEES

Warned of Perils, Destroyer 217 Dashed Up Tokyo Bay to Rescue Marooned Foreigners in Capital, the First to Reach It After Disaster.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The Kobe correspondent of the Central News says that refugees arriving on the steamer Empress of Australia credit the commander and officers of the American naval destroyer 217 with the most outstanding act of heroism after the earthquake. This was the dash of the craft up Tokyo Bay to rescue marooned foreigners in the Japanese capital.

Ocean-going vessels rarely attempt to steam further up the gulf than Yokohama, and for the Americans to take their ship to Tokyo through the shallow waters of the upper bay, after the seismic upheaval, involved unknown dangers.

The commanders of other ships at Yokohama warned the United States commander that it was too early to attempt rescue work. Nevertheless, Destroyer 217 made the run and the Americans were the first rescuers to reach the city after the disaster.

As it was impossible to dock the craft, the refugees were taken aboard from small boats and Destroyer 217 returned to Yokohama. Two hundred refugees boarded the liners that were acting as rescue ships.

Another dash to Tokyo followed, and on her return the destroyer brought the remaining foreigners who desired to leave the capital to the safety of the big ships at Yokohama.

Strong Guard Around Foreigners.

The American rescuers found the foreign colony encamped in the gardens of the Imperial Hotel, with a strong military guard around the buildings and gardens for protection purposes. The foreigners slept in the open and received military rations and two meals daily from the hotel authorities, who placed all the resources in food, clothing and bedding at the disposal of the foreign residents, as well as the guests of the hotel.

The military guard around the grounds was necessary, says the correspondent, because across the street in Hibuya Park, 100,000 destitute Japanese, many of them desperate, as the result of their suffering, had even less food and protection from the elements than had the foreigners.

The foreigners remained isolated in the hotel grounds until Tuesday morning, when the destroyer arrived.

The steamer Empress of Australia continued her relief work at Yokohama for nine days before proceeding to Kobe, with 200 European and American refugees. Most of the refugees got away as quickly as possible, but many of the foreigners whose homes were in Tokyo, are remaining and assisting in the relief work.

The American Embassy Records Saved.

The American and British embassies, the dispatch says, are still quartered in the Imperial Hotel. The American official records were removed from the embassy, he says, before the fire reached the vicinity of the embassy compound, and all the records and official reports are safe. It is likewise believed the British archives were saved.

British warships have arrived at Yokohama and are co-operating with the American authorities.

The moratorium, the Government relief fund and the prohibition of speculation have all combined to alleviate the situation of the refugees, the dispatch adds.

The slight drop in the yen is considered to be a remarkable testimony to the Government's strength and the confidence of foreign investors.

Refugees, Reaching China, Tell Graphic Tales of Quake.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 8.—(Delayed.)—Touching scenes were witnessed when the steamer Empress of Canada, carrying approximately 400 refugees from Japan docked here at noon today. Most of the refugees cause of Poincare's volunteering to mediate between Jugo-Slavia and Italy. Premier Poincare has prolonged his stay in the French capital. Dr. Rydzynski, Jugo-Slav head of the mixed Fiume commission, arrived in Belgrade and reported to the Foreign Under-Secretary on the Fiume situation and the breaking up of work of the mixed commission.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—It is stated were residents of Yokohama. They brought no baggage.

The hund was choked with the vast crowd that gathered to search for friends and relatives among the passengers. The customs examination of the refugees was waived.

There were many women among the refugees, but no weeping. There was an occasional hysterical laugh. For the most part the throng of refugees was silent, waiting for the conveyance provided by relief organizations to carry them to emergency accommodations previously arranged for them at hotels and private homes.

Th steamship Hsing Ming sailed today for Japan with an international relief party, including four American doctors, three Chinese doctors and 32 nurses. The ship, which sailed just before the arrival of the Empress, was carrying thousands of dollars worth of supplies to the earthquake sufferers. Its departure was cheered tumultuously by a large crowd at the docks.

Relate Harrowing Experiences.

All of the refugees relate harrowing experiences in the quake. The most graphic tales are those told by Miss Esther Robertson, a Shanghai stenographer; Miss Billy Courts and Mrs. William McBain. Mrs. McBain is prominent in the Orient and wealthy. Miss Courts is one of the most widely known horse women in China.

Miss Robertson said she was sitting in her room at a hotel in Kamakura knitting when the building suddenly started to vibrate. Her chair was upset and she was thrown to the floor.

"I scrambled hastily to my feet," she said, "and rushed outside. The ground shook with great violence and I was forced frequently to seize the trunk of a tree to avoid being blown down."

She thought to remain in the open to escape being crushed by falling buildings.

"I spent the first night in the morning to walk in the general direction of Yokohama, 18 miles away. I was scantily dressed and my feet were covered only with thin slippers. My feet were bleeding."

"All houses that I saw were flattened and the bodies of men, women and children were strewn everywhere along the way. Bodies filled fissures along the way."

"I finally reached the seashore and beckoned a fisherman who placed me in his boat and rowed four hours, eventually putting me down at a small village which was destitute of humans, except the dead. There was no sign of life except for prowling dogs. I spent the night in a small thatched hut and drank from a well with fear and trembling."

Desolate and in Ruins.

"When I resumed my journey I saw Japanese country folk groping in the ruins of their homes and carrying their wounded in their arms as though they could love them back to strength and health. I found a road torn up and railways bent and twisted."

"I reached Yokohama late Monday, having traveled since Saturday noon. The whole place was desolate and in ruins. I scrambled over the debris and the bodies of the dead. I was sickened by the moans of the injured whom I was unable to help. At last, I reached the water front and was taken in a fainting condition aboard a sampan which conveyed me to the steamer Empress of Australia, where I found temporary refuge and food."

Miss Robertson's home formerly was in London.

The stories told by Miss Courts and Mrs. McBain are similar in many respects to the one told by Miss Robertson.

Through it all, Miss Courts managed to save her favorite bulldog.

that the Serbian Government has requested Italy to extend beyond Sept. 15 the date of expiration of the Italian demands for settlement of the status of Fiume. The extension is asked so that the negotiations may continue and the whole question, if necessary, be referred to Swiss arbitration.

The mixed commission of Italian and Jugo-Slav appointed to decide the fate of Fiume and the contested territory about it, would be administered by a mixed commission on which Italy, Jugo-Slavia and the Free State of Fiume were represented. Premier Mussolini gave the Belgrade Government 15 days time in which to decide whether or not it would approve the agreement.

Not Ready for Bargaining.

The German business barons are not sure how far the Comité des Forges can persuade Poincare to go, and consequently the table is not set for a precise bargaining.

Stinnes' own paper, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, points out that "it is useless discussing whether private industrial negotiations should come before or after a general settlement. The industrial agreement is too closely connected with the reparations settlement for any difference of opinion on this point."

The Vossische Zeitung says the Poincare address is "a continuation of the relations set in motion after Stresemann's first speech." It says both speeches are merely "music that accompanies feelings between Paris and Berlin."

Generally the papers slide almost pathetically over Poincare's harsher phrases to the emergency glowings with optimism on the change in his tone, and the specialist Centrum Volkspartei organs announce his speech to be a step forward to peace.

Only the Deutsche Zeitung (recreational) insists what is apparent in the speech calls for capitulation.

CONVERSATIONS ON RUHR SETTLEMENT STILL UNDER WAY

Definite Offer Respecting Passive Resistance Not Yet Made by Germany, French Officials Say.

OUTLOOK, HOWEVER, CONSIDERED GOOD

Any Suggestions Received at Paris to Be Communicated to the British and Allied Governments.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 11.—Conversations that are taking place between Jacques de Margerie, French Ambassador to Germany, and Chancellor Stresemann in Berlin are considered by the French Government as leading toward a settlement of the reparations question, although it is stated that the Chancellor has not yet made a definite offer either respecting the resistance in the Ruhr or what could be proposed afterward.

The conferences between M. de Margerie and Chancellor Stresemann will be continued. Any suggestion received by the French Government from the German Government will be communicated to the British and Allied Governments.

The appointment of a German ambassador to Paris is expected almost immediately as a step toward hastening a better understanding.

The French public and press received news of the conference with a certain reserve, in view of the many disappointments they have suffered since 1919 in attempts at a reparations solution. The Temps emphasizes that Germany has made no offer to France and that Chancellor Stresemann has "sharply exposed the tendency of his policy."

By the Associated Press.

DUSSELDORF, Sept. 11.—Fear of the ultimate separation of the Ruhr and Rhineland from Germany, rather than the economic pressure brought by the allies in the occupation of the Ruhr, is the chief motive behind Germany's renewal of the discussion for an agreement with France, in the opinion of the leader of the trades unions in the Rhineland.

The organization of which this laborite is the head has a membership of more than 5,000,000 workers of all categories and is associated with the big heads of industry. It wields probably the strongest influence of any organization in the occupied territory.

Germany Preparing New Guarantees

that the Serbian Government has requested Italy to extend beyond Sept. 15 the date of expiration of the Italian demands for settlement of the status of Fiume. The extension is asked so that the negotiations may continue and the whole question, if necessary, be referred to Swiss arbitration.

The mixed commission of Italian and Jugo-Slav appointed to decide the fate of Fiume and the contested territory about it, would be administered by a mixed commission on which Italy, Jugo-Slavia and the Free State of Fiume were represented. Premier Mussolini gave the Belgrade Government 15 days time in which to decide whether or not it would approve the agreement.

Not Ready for Bargaining.

The German business barons are not sure how far the Comité des Forges can persuade Poincare to go, and consequently the table is not set for a precise bargaining.

Stinnes' own paper, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, points out that "it is useless discussing whether private industrial negotiations should come before or after a general settlement. The industrial agreement is too closely connected with the reparations settlement for any difference of opinion on this point."

The Vossische Zeitung says the Poincare address is "a continuation of the relations set in motion after Stresemann's first speech." It says both speeches are merely "music that accompanies feelings between Paris and Berlin."

Generally the papers slide almost pathetically over Poincare's harsher phrases to the emergency glowings with optimism on the change in his tone, and the specialist Centrum Volkspartei organs announce his speech to be a step forward to peace.

Only the Deutsche Zeitung (recreational) insists what is apparent in the speech calls for capitulation.

Navy Entrain in Air Races Sets Unofficial World's Speed Mark

Wright Fighter, to Compete in Pulitzer Race Here, Makes 238 Miles an Hour.

By the Associated Press.

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The navy Wright fighter, the airplane which will represent the United States Navy in the Pulitzer Trophy race at St. Louis in October, established an unofficial world's speed record over a measured course at Roosevelt Field yesterday afternoon, traveling at the rate of 238 miles an hour. The machine was piloted by Lieut. L. H. Sanderson, U. S. N.

The speed was made in straight away flying without the advantage of a dive from high altitude, to attain momentum before covering the measured distance. The machine was made as a building trial preliminary to the air classic next month. An accurate timing was observed to gain reliable information as to what the plane might be expected to do. The time represents the actual speed of the plane in still air.

Lieut. Sanderson also will pilot the machine in the Pulitzer race.

The new Wright biplane has a wing span of 34 ft. 6 in. The propeller is of metal and the angle of the blades can be adjusted. The craft in effect is an airplane built around an engine to convert tremendous power into speed. The machine can carry 200 pounds of bombs. It has a 100-horsepower engine, with which it is equipped, made its first appearance in the Pulitzer races last year as an experiment. At that time it developed 550 horsepower, but because of an excessive failure to the plane did not finish the race. The engine has been improved so that it now develops 1500 more horsepower. The weight of engine and plane is 2300 pounds.

Hundreds Said to Have Killed Seives as Result of Hunger.

OSAKA, Sept. 11.—(Delayed.)—An Eastern news agency dispatch to the Osaka Asahi from Tokyo says that many of the hundreds of refugees gathered in Ueno Park, Tokyo, have committed suicide as a result of hunger and exposure.

The same news report says that among those who have been reported dead, but who have been found to be living, are the Princess Tatenori Kaya, Tadashige Shimazu and Masayoshi Matsukata, Mayor Watanabe of Yokohama, and Chief of Police Kume of Kanagawa Prefecture.

70,000 Dead Counted in Two Cities Up to Sept. 7.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The dead counted by Japanese authorities up to Sept. 7 numbered 47,000 in Tokyo and 23,000 in Yokohama, the Foreign Office in Tokyo reported last night to the Japanese Embassy here.

The message said 150 foreigners have been killed, "so far as has been ascertained."

About 316,000 houses, or 71 per cent of all, were destroyed in Tokyo, while 70,000 of the 155,000 houses in Yokohama met a similar fate. Police of Tokyo, according to the message, estimated 1,314,000 persons homeless there, constituting 67 per cent of the total population.

The deaths of the British assistant commercial attaché, Henry, and a vicar, Waddell, assistant to the British commercial attaché in Yokohama, were reported.

Five of the leading banks opened business Sept. 8, including the Mitsui Bank, the Kwangyo Bank, the Bank of Taiwan, the Kogyo Bank and the Yokohama Specie, the dispatch said, while the Ministry of Finance and the Bank of Japan were striving to re-establish the financial affairs of Tokyo.

The Foreign Office building was reported only partially destroyed, but owing to the dislocation of communication more than half of the staff was able to reach the office.

"Better efficiency in foreign communications will be attained within a few days," the message predicted.

This issue is dodged by all the other papers.

Plan of Stresemann.

Stresemann has sought to make the French content with a gradual abandonment of passive resistance so as to avoid the humiliation of complete capitulation and his plan was that the French industrialists would be so anxious to get a favorable agreement with the Germans that they would influence Poincare to go light on the political victory end of the deal. This hope has not been abandoned, it is said, while after a series of contradictory official announcements, nothing has yet been decided on in financial reform nor the institution of new currency.

This list was prepared by Ambassador Woods at Kobe and apparently represented the first attempt of the American Embassy to gather together the names of Americans who had lost their lives. It was forwarded by mail from Tokyo to Kobe.

In no case was the home address given.

A mistral resulted yesterday in Circuit Judge Grim's Court, when a jury after two hours' deliberation failed to agree in the case against William Longo of 823 Carr street, former Hogan gangster, charged with carrying concealed weapons. Another trial will be held.

Detective Sergeant Archey testified that he and other officers were driving east on Cass avenue March 28 last when they saw Longo, walking on the opposite side of the street, throw a revolver into a yard where he observed the officers. A revolver found in the yard was produced in court as the one Longo had thrown away. There were no other witnesses who saw the revolver in Longo's possession, but another officer testified he saw Longo throw "something" into the yard. Longo denied the charge, declaring that the revolver in evidence did not belong to him.

He was one of six gangster defendants under a blanket indictment for carrying concealed weapons that was quashed last week by Judge Grimm, who held that the men should have been indicted individually. The case was held open so that Circuit Attorney Siderer may cite his authorities for the blanket indictment.

Engines Are Stopped to Test the Valves.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—After three hours in the air, the ZR-1, the navy's new giant dirigible, was working perfectly as she prepared for a trial trip over New York City.

Radio advice received by Commander M. R. Pierce, commandant of the station at Lakehurst, N. J., from Commander McCarty on the ship were that the engines and valves were behaving with precision.

Commander Pierce explained that the stopping of the engines, which confused land observers along the Jersey coast, was to test the valves. After the dirigible had circled

ALLEGED MEMBER OF DRUG RING, WHO 'TALKED,' IS SLAIN

Jim English, 19, Shot When He Steps From Auto in Front of Ice Cream Store.

SLAYER, DESCRIBED AS YOUNG MAN, ESCAPES

Victim Was to Have Been Witness in Case Federal Agents Were Preparing Against Narcotic Peddlers.

Jim English, 19 years old, accused by the police of being a member of a narcotics ring, with headquarters in a saloon at Blair and Cass avenues, was shot through the heart and almost instantly killed at 8:35 a. m. today when he stepped from a Ford coupe in front of an ice cream store at 1411 Blair avenue.

The slayer escaped. Mrs. Laura Morrocco of 1400 Blair avenue tried to head him off, but he brushed her aside in his flight. Mrs. Morrocco, so far as the police could learn, was the only eyewitness. She said the men argued before the shooting, but she could not make out what they were talking about.

After he was shot English crawled into the ice cream store and collapsed behind a refrigerator. The proprietor, Leo Greco, told the police that he was in a back room and did not see the shooting.

Federal narcotic agents were preparing evidence against drug peddlers to be presented to the Federal grand jury and English was an important witness. He was arrested last January in connection with a raid on a house near Sixteenth and O'Fallon streets, in which 77 packages of morphine and a bottle of powdered opium were found. English was identified as having rented the house and following his arrest he is said to have "talked."

FRENCHMAN TRYING TO CROSS ATLANTIC IN 30-FOOT SLOOP

Left Nice Early in May—Believed to Have Been Man Sighted Near Nantucket Lightship.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Sept. 11.—A lone French sailor who hailed the Greek steamer Byron on her last voyage to New York at a point about 200 miles east of Nantucket Lightship, was probably Francois Gerbault, 28 years old, who bet the skippers of two English sailing vessels that he alone aboard his eight-ton 30-foot sloop Fire Crest would beat them across the Atlantic in spite of the assistance of his crew.

Gerbault left Nice early in May. He had a hard time of it in the craft to Gibraltar where he remained for a few days, leaving on June 8, with food and water for 100 days which he calculated would be the maximum time for his trip. Having no auxiliary motor, he planned to follow the route taken by Columbus, thereby using the trade winds.

Gerbault is a skilled navigator, a first class tennis player, and an aviation pilot. His friends are now hoping he will succeed in his attempt to be the first man to cross the Atlantic alone.

The master of the Byron reported last Tuesday in New York that he had seen a small westbound sloop with sail at a point 190 miles east of Nantucket Lightship. A man standing in the stern of the little craft endeavored to semaphore to the steamer and when the captain answered through a megaphone the man replied in French. The Byron put off a boat which learned that the sailor's name was Francois Gerbault, who said he was crossing the Atlantic on a wager.

The Byron sent him some provisions and offered a tow, but Gerbault refused the latter, proceeding on his way west.

It was estimated then that with good luck he would make Sandy Hook in a week.

U. R. RECEIVER TO PAY INTEREST ON BONDS

Authority Obtained to Use $381,728.42 of General Funds for the Purpose.

The receiver of the United Railways Co., late yesterday, was authorized by the Federal Court to pay $381,728.42 out of the general revenue funds of the company as interest on various bonds of the system, payments being due Oct. 1.

The bonds included and the amount of payments follow: Cass Avenue and Fairgrounds Railway Co., bonds aggregating $1,640,000; interest amounting to $49,200.

Compton Heights, Union Depot and Merchants' Terminal Railway Co., bonds aggregating $886,000; interest of $14,700.

St. Louis and Suburban Railway Co., bonds aggregating $2,000,000; interest of $53,340.

St. Louis Transit Co., bonds aggregating $9,700,000; interest of $244,750.

New Certificates Authorized. Authority is granted for the issuance of receivership certificates sufficient to pay the $4,200,000 outstanding receivership certificates which mature Oct. 1 and to issue receivership certificates to pay bonds of the Cass, Compton Heights and Lindell systems or to procure extensions of those bonds.

An extension is ordered of consolidated bonds of the St. Louis & Suburban Railway Co. and on general bonds of the same system, aggregating $4,500,000, which matured April 1 last.

No provision is made for extension of St. Louis & Suburban bonds which mature Oct. 1. When the application for authority to make payments of interest was argued before Special Master Lamm, Sam B. Jeffries, counsel for bond holders of the Suburban, opposed extension of the bonded indebtedness, saying it was a burden which the court should not carry. As long as the Court is satisfied to operate the property it is likely that persons financially interested will permit the Court to do so, he said. If, however, they are forced to bring foreclosure proceedings to protect their interests, it would result in reorganization of the system, he said.

In Hands of Committee. Jeffries was asked today if bondholders of the Suburban contemplate a foreclosure proceeding and separation of the Suburban line from the remainder of the system. He said the situation was in the hands of a committee representing bondholders. He intimated the committee might decide upon a course of action in a short time.

He says: "Of course I save money* by smoking 'Bull' Durham. But my point is I don't have to sacrifice the enjoyment of quality smokes in order to save."

"'Bull' Durham home-rolled gives me everything I desire in smoking. I am only one of many at the Ford plant who feel the same way."

They're all like that—the "Bull" Durham fans. Settled for life—contented—happy; all through "looking around."

What about you? Don't you want to find out why so many smokers prefer it to other cigarettes—at any price!

We are going to make it easy and worth your while to do so. We are going to send you, free at your request, a generous sample of "Bull" Durham and a sample of 24 sheets of Imported Riz la Croix paper—the finest made.

This free "get-acquainted" package will start you towards what thousands of other men already call "the one real smoke."

(*Please don't forget this: "Bull" Durham gives you 50 unequalled cigarettes for 10 cents. This figures a saving for the average smoker of about $79 a year)

SEMEOFF REPORTED
DEAD IN EARTHQUAKEName of Anti-Bolshevik Leader Was Byword in Siberia for Cruelty and Audacity.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Sept. 11.—A dispatch from Peking dated Saturday, says Gen. Gregorie Semenov, former commander-in-chief of the All-Russian armies and later anti-Bolshevik leader in Siberia, perished with a group of his followers in Yokohama during the earthquake.

The dispatch says it also is reported that M. Merkuloff, former head of the anti-Bolshevik Government in Vladivostok, is dead.

Semenov sprang into prominence in 1918, when he headed the movement to break the strength of the Bolsheviks along the trans-Siberian railway. He was perhaps the most prominent of the anti-Bolshevik forces and was followed by establishment of a government more or less friendly to the Moscow regime at Chita and Vladivostok.

Semenov is said to have used the firing squad and the whipping post recklessly and to have inspired terror wherever he went. Bravery and audacity, plus a reputation for cruelty, made the name of the Cossack a byword in Siberia.

After the defeat of Semenov, a group of anti-Bolshevik forces, which formerly had been under the command of the late Gen. Kappell, occupied Vladivostok and organized a new government headed by Merkuloff. Merkuloff was deposed in June, 1922.

In 1922, Semenov came to the United States and on arrival in New York was arrested in a civil action, to enforce payment of a judgment of about $600,000 entered against him in Harbin, Manchuria, for confiscation of private merchandise alleged to have been taken by Semenov and his forces. The court dismissed all the charges for lack of jurisdiction.

EARTH SHOKS IN NEBRASKA

Tremors Shake Town of Tekamah for Thirty Seconds.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 11.—An earthquake early this morning shook the town of Tekamah, Neb., but did no damage. It lasted 30 seconds and ended with two distinct shocks, accompanied by a low rumbling noise. Northern Nebraska several times has experienced earthquakes since the coming of white men, and Indian legends tell of earthquakes before that time. The last quake followed the Mt. Pelee disaster, affected 400 square miles in Northern Nebraska, but did not cause much damage.

THORNTON AND MAJORS
CLASH AT MEETING

Officers Say Commander Refused to Permit Vote on His Resignation.

Open warfare prevails in the 138th Regiment, National Guard of Missouri, between Col. Charles S. Thornton and two battalion commanders, Maj. Burr S. Goodman and L. C. Kingsland. The third commander of a battalion, Maj. J. J. McLaughlin, also an opponent of Col. Thornton, has resigned.

Col. Thornton said today that he had designated Capt. H. S. Townsend to take charge of McLaughlin's former battalion in tonight's drill, and that, at the drills of the two other battalions, later in the week, he would designate captains to command them, and would not permit Maj. Goodman and Kingsland to act again. If they do not resign, he said, charges of insubordination will be preferred against them.

Majors Plan Charges.
Maj. Goodman said today that he and Maj. Kingsland would file formal charges against Col. Thornton with Adjutant-General Raupp, who is in charge of the National Guard of the State.

He would not make the charges public in advance of their official presentation, but it is understood from other officers, who have been in consultation with the Majors, that the charges will relate both to Col. Thornton's military qualifications and to his conduct toward other officers, particularly at the State encampment held at Nevada July 15-21.

The Colonel and the Majors clashed at last night's meeting of regimental officers at the Armory. The Majors and some other officers, a week before, had prepared a petition asking that Col. Thornton resign. The Colonel was not at the previous week's meeting, but he returned from his vacation in Colorado immediately after that meeting. Since that time, Adjutant-General Raupp has been here, and has expressed his confidence in Col. Thornton.

Major Goodman said today that Col. Thornton had promised him and others that he would resign at any time when a majority of the officers should request his resignation. Last night, Goodman said, he endeavored to have a vote taken on the wishes of the officers present, but Thornton refused to put such a motion.

Ready to Face Charges.

Maj. Goodman said he intended to carry his charges, if necessary, to the Military Bureau in Washington, as the War Department has close supervision of the National Guard under the present military system.

Col. Thornton said he had never promised Maj. Goodman or anyone else to take a ballot of officers such as Goodman suggested last night. He said he was willing to hear Goodman's charges read, but Goodman replied that the charges, when prepared, would be placed with the Adjutant-General.

An unfriendly feeling is said to have existed between the three battalion commanders and Maj. C. M. Westerman, head of the sanitary corps of the regiment. Maj. Westerman has figured, in the past, in some Ku Klux discussions, and it has been charged that Ku Klux influences have been brought into the regiment through his activity and his friendship for Col. Thornton.

Illinoisan Accidentally Kills Self.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ANNA, Ill., Sept. 11.—Ralph Shamm, attorney of Temple, Tex., former resident of this city, accidentally shot and killed himself early this morning as he was starting to Detroit on a business trip.

"ROBBERS" HAD REPLEVIN WRIT

The Magnolia Avenue Police Station was notified last midnight that burglars were attempting to break into the home of Ernest G. Sunkel, 3111 Portia avenue, and four policemen were sent there. As they approached they saw two men on Sunkel's front porch, and when the policemen drove up Mrs. Sunkel opened the door and the two men stepped in.

The policemen jumped out of their car and seized the men, who said they were Deputy Constables with a writ of replevin for an automobile in Sunkel's possession, which they were permitted to serve, after which they took Sunkel's automobile from his garage. Sunkel explained to the police that the constables had rung the door bell, but would not state their business and he assumed that they were robbers. When asked why they had selected midnight to serve the writ, Deputy Constable Roth from Justice of the Peace Martin's Court said they happened to find that hour convenient for them.

Reports Theft of $12,000.
James Podgorny, 1823 E. Twelfth street, a butcher, told men he had been stopped by two armed men when riding in his automobile on Riverside Drive near City Water Works at 11 o'clock last night and robbed of $12,000 and to turn around and drive into country for eight miles, where was put out of the machine. The robbers took his automobile, said, and drove away.

GOVERNOR'S EDICT STRIPS HOOD FROM OKLAHOMA KLAN

ROBES LEFT BEHIND AT ONE MEETING

Executive in Command of Field in His War on Secret Organization to Which He Lays Floggings.

By the Associated Press.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Sept. 11.—The "invisible empire" laid aside its invisibility in Oklahoma today, submitting to the edict of Gov. J. C. Walton, against masked parades and meetings. All members of the Ku Klux Klan in the State had orders from the "grand dragon" of the Oklahoma realm that robes and hoods must no longer be worn in public.

The unmasking of the Klan left Gov. Walton in command of the field in his war on the secret organization to which he attributes floggings and other mob outrages, but it was not without violent protest that State Klan officials decided to bow to his ultimatum. "Grand Dragon" N. C. Jewett made it plain that only the Governor's threat of martial law for communities in which masked demonstrations were held, led to the decision to discard robes and hoods in public.

First Unmasked Meeting.
A Klan meeting near Bristow last night was the first to unmask under the Governor's orders. "Our robes have been left behind because we do not want to give the Governor an excuse for martial law in Creek County," said the Rev. W. O. Beech, pastor of the Baptist church at Bristow, addressing the gathering.

Basil E. Newton of Atlanta, a national lecturer for the Klan, who delivered the principal address, declared that klanism in Oklahoma would not resist "the czar" but would satisfy themselves with action at the next election. Three demands are required of the Klan, Gov. Walton announced:
1.—The Klan shall unmask and cease all demonstrations of such a nature as to alarm and disturb the public and peace of the community.
2.—Flogging parties, threats and intimidations and unlawful activities must be banned.
3.—The Klan must cease to exercise, or attempt to exercise, any influence over municipal and county officials, juries and courts.

Applies to Other Bodies.
These demands will be applicable to all other organizations, the Governor said. All reports leading to the belief that local governments have become subservient to any secret organization, he said, will be open to prompt investigation, and upon establishment of sufficient proof, such cities or counties will be placed under military law until such time as constitutional government shall have been restored.

A reward of $1000 for any person that can prove that he ever signed an application for membership in the Ku Klux Klan was offered by the Governor last night. Klan officials had made public what purported to be an application showing that the executive had been "obligated" in the Klan on Feb. 13, last.

Gov. Walton denied that he had ever sought membership in the Klan and declared that he had refused to join the organization after being urged for more than a month.

Formal Proclamation.
In a formal proclamation the executive ordered all State and local authorities to disperse masked demonstrations. Gatherings of persons masked, or with their faces disguised, the proclamation declared, "are deemed to be violations of the Constitution and laws of the State of Oklahoma and constitute the crime of disturbing the peace, of riot, of rout and unlawful assembly, and are hereby forbidden."

"The Klan is for law and order first, last and all the time. Because of this fact any parade or masked meeting of any kind in Oklahoma absolutely is forbidden," said "Grand Dragon" Jewett.

While there is no law operating on the statute books of Oklahoma which forbids meetings of this kind, rather than inflict martial law upon the citizens of this State, I thought it best to forbid any parades until after these affairs have been straightened out," said Jewett.

Martial rule reached hitherto untouched spots yesterday when eight Collinsville business men were brought before the military court and two Kiefer citizens were arrested for participating in a flogging in Tulsa County. Kiefer is in Creek County. The eight from Collinsville were: J. R. Caudle, banker; H. W. Gilliland, Oscar Atchison and John C. Maltby, City Commissioners; R. D. Perry, Chief of Police; J. O. Colburn, J. R. Maltby and J. A. Reeves.

The Collinsville men were questioned, it is understood, about two flogging parties in the east part of Tulsa County.

Wealth and Warmth and Luxury in the Beautiful New Woolen Fabrics

THE richness of exquisitely blended color tones—soft grays that shade into subtle browns—tawny, barbaric, Egyptian browns—that seem to melt into evanescent grays; these are the charms of Vellona, Velmara and Marvella—ravishing materials for Fall and Winter coats, capes and suits. Wonderfully becoming are these soft, velvety, delicately colored fabrics, with a potency for bringing out the color of one's hair and one's eyes, and the freshness of a lovely skin.

For brighter colors of a lasting loveliness, the new imported German Broadcloths are delightful indeed—so thickly and firmly woven, but withal so soft for gowns and suits of elegance. The eye is drawn first to coral, reds and a soft gray-blue, but one is not satisfied till she has admired the full range—cadet blue, taupe, clove, mole, brown and two shades of navy.

And the sports fabrics! English Coatings so soft and fluffy, in camel's hair and delicate gray, that it is a luxury to touch them. And a wonderful selection of the smartest of checks, plaids and striped fabrics for sports frocks and skirts.

You will enjoy a visit to the Woolen Goods Shop—Second Floor.

NOONAN PREPARES RESIGNATION FOR LEGION CONVENTION

State Department Adjutant Ready to Acknowledge Victory of "Better Legion" Forces.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Sept. 11.—J. K. Noonan, Adjutant of the Missouri Department of the American Legion, today has his resignation prepared for presentation to the State Legion, in convention here. This represents a victory for the Better Legion movement, which was organized because of dissatisfaction over the administration of legion affairs in Missouri.

The resignation has been approved by James E. Kinkead of Farnell, State commander.

Noonan's action followed the defeat of a resolution, offered by him at midnight, to have a committee comprising a legion representative from each congressional district, appointed to investigate the conduct of his office. The Better Legion forces voted down the plan, 157 to 146, this being the first test of strength of that faction.

St. Louis Delegation Split.

This was followed at 1:30 a. m. by an adjournment motion, offered by the "Better Legion" forces with the statement that "a satisfactory adjustment will be made of the Noonan controversy." On the adjournment motion the St. Louis delegation of 48 voted 27 to 21 for Noonan. The "Better Legion" forces were led by Col. H. D. McBride with Jerome F. Dugan of St. Louis leading the administration forces.

D. N. Nee, City Attorney of Springfield, is regarded as the leading administration candidate for the State command.

The 400 delegates yesterday adopted a resolution asking the Committee on Rules and Order of Business to provide a place on the program for consideration of the resignation of Noonan. In the stormy session James E. Kinkead, State commander, who opened the convention, was unseated as chairman of the Committee of the Whole.

Resolution on Noonan.

The State commander, following a speech by Sanford McNider, former national commander, announced the Committee on Credentials was not ready to report. The announcement was followed by a motion to adjourn which failed to carry.

The motion calling for consideration of the resignation of Noonan followed the stormy session. It was made by C. L. Crocker, Bulvar, Mo., as follows:

"That it is the sense of the delegates assembled for this convention that the committee on rules and order of business be instructed to provide a place in the convention program for the consideration of it. Resolved, that by reason of the persistent criticism leveled against J. K. Noonan and his conduct of the office of State Adjutant of Missouri, it is to the best interest of the Missouri State Department of the American Legion that J. K. Noonan resign forthwith."

Immediately after the reading of the resolution one of the delegates objected on the grounds that the motion was out of order because the committee on credentials had not reported and therefore the convention was not officially in session.

A motion that the meeting take the form of a meeting of the committee of the whole was made and carried by a large majority. Then came the vote unseating Kinkead. Humphrey Sullivan of St. Louis was elected chairman of the committee of the whole. He ruled the meeting with an iron hand and order was maintained despite the periodical outbreaks and bitter word battles.

SHOOTS SELF WHEN ARRESTED ON MARRIED WOMAN'S CHARGE

George H. Ballard, Accused of Annoying Her, Is in Critical Condition.

George H. Ballard, 44 years old, of 6322 Clayton avenue, proprietor of a shoe shop on the first floor at that address, shot and seriously wounded himself yesterday afternoon when a policeman appeared to arrest him on a charge of disturbing the peace.

For some time, according to Walter Kammer, butcher of 6239 Clayton avenue, Ballard has been annoying Kammer's wife, Elsie, 26. Yesterday afternoon, his wife told him that soon after he left the shop he had entered and attempted to kiss her. Kammer asked for Ballard's arrest. When Patrolman Thomas J. Walsh entered Ballard's shop and told him he was under arrest, Ballard asked for a few minutes in which to lock up. He then went to a drawer, drew a revolver and shot himself in the abdomen. He is married and has two children.

Ballard was taken to city hospital where an operation was performed in an effort to save his life. Doctors said today his condition was grave. Kammer told policemen that when he approached Ballard in his shoe store and asked why he was annoying Mrs. Kammer, Ballard remarked, "I can see no harm in what I have done."

Kammer said he would not prosecute. Mrs. Kammer told the police Ballard had annoyed her since June. She has four children.

Stenographer Cut Finger on Type-writer Key

"It happens almost every day," said the head stenographer of a large business house, "often one of our girls will get a painful cut on her finger when adjusting her machine or when the type key sticks. But we've found a way to keep the cuts clean and to bandage simple fingers without lessening their efficiency.
The answer is J & J Band-Aid, the instant, ready-to-use, first-aid bandage made by Johnson & Johnson. You simply cut off a tiny strip of Band-Aid, moisten the gauze pad with an antiseptic and press down the adhesive ends.
You never saw such a neat little bandage—as protective as it is inconspicuous. We keep a supply on hand constantly in case of emergency in all of our departments.
J & J Band-Aid costs only 25c. It should be in every home as well as in every office. If your own drugist cannot supply you, send his name to Johnson & Johnson, New Brunswick, N. J., and a free sample will be sent you."

MEXICAN RECOGNITION VIEWED AS HELP TO LAW ENFORCEMENT

Co-operation in Hunting Out Fugitives on Both Sides of Border Will Result, Says Texas Official.

By the Associated Press.
AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 11.—Recognition of Mexico by the United States should be a decided help to Texas Rangers and other law enforcement officers in the border territory, according to Adj. Gen. Thomas D. Barton in an opinion expressed here yesterday.

Barton said that in the past it had been difficult for Rangers to carry on their law enforcement program in the proper fashion because they were limited in their activities to the Texas side of the Rio Grande River. In the near future, however, Texas and Mexican officials will probably co-operate in hunting out law violators, the adjutant general stated.

"Mexico has been the refuge of many law violators from Texas, just as Texas has been the refuge for Mexican law violators," Barton said. "The recognition of the southern republic should serve to end this practice. We hope to co-operate with Mexican officers in seeking out law breakers in the two countries."

Since recognition, the Governor of Texas can requisition a Mexican Governor for extradition of persons in Mexico, while the Mexican Government can requisition the Texas chief executive for extradition papers, it was stated.

UNIVERSITY STUDENT MISSING

Father of Youth Who Was to Become Minister Suspects Foul Play.

By the Associated Press.
FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 11.—Fear of foul play in the disappearance of Thomas Earl Dudley, newspaper man and Texas Christian University student, who disappeared from his classes at the university on Aug. 29, when he was to have received his diploma as a missionary, was expressed by his father, R. L. Dudley of Dallas, who requested police to go to any ends to locate his missing son.

Dudley, after receiving his diploma, was to have accepted a pastorate in Hope, Ark. In September, but never reached his destination, according to his family.

BOARD OF INQUIRY TO SEEK CAUSE OF NAVAL DISASTER

Expected to Reach Scene of Seven Wrecked Destroyers, Off California Coast, Today for Investigation.

By the Associated Press.
SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Sept. 11.—A Board of Inquiry, with Rear Admiral W. V. Pratt as its senior member, is expected at the scene of seven wrecked patrol destroyers at Honda, 75 miles north of here, today, to investigate the disaster which cost the lives of 29 enlisted men and set a record for peace-time naval losses.
The death list was placed at 23 last night, with the official announcement that 22 men are missing and one dead. The possibility that many of the unrecovered bodies may have been swept out to sea was given added strength today, when Lieut. Lee, at the scene of the wreck, said he believed no bodies remained on the destroyers. It was thought the men were trapped in the lower decks of the Young as she turned over after the wreck, but Lieut. Lee says all vessels were searched before they were deserted after the wreck.
The unofficial list shows that three bodies were recovered from the surf near the wreck yesterday. Of the injured in hospitals here and at San Diego, it is believed all will recover.

Await Commanders' Explanation.
The inquiry will involve explanations from the commanders of the vessels, which went ashore in the fog last Saturday night, while cruising at 20 knots an hour in a heavy fog from San Francisco to San Diego.
At San Diego, the naval base, where 500 survivors of the men, are quartered, it was semi-officially reported last night that the orders to change course was given from the Delphy, leading the cruisers, before the craft had reached Point Arguello. The order is recognized by seasoned marines as one not usually given until after vessels moving off the California coast, southbound, clear the Arguello Light, as the coast line juts sharply into the Pacific just north of the lighthouse.

Officers of the wrecked destroyers scouted reports that tidal conditions were responsible for the wreck. All virtually agreed that the heavy fog which has hampered navigation for the last few days was to blame.
Shipping men who viewed the wrecks said they feared the destroyers never could be floated, but must be left to rust and break up. Attempts are to be made, however, to save ships' instruments, radio equipment, torpedoes and other explosives and other movable articles from them.

Mail Liner on Reef.
The Pacific mail liner Cuba is stranded on a reef near Point Bennett, on the western edge of San Miguel Island. The hulk was located yesterday. Capt. Holland and four members of the crew are on the island and are living in an abandoned fisherman's hut, while stationing a guard over the wreck. All of the $2,500,000 in silver bullion the vessel carried has been taken from the hulk and is en route to San Francisco on a United States destroyer. The $500,000 cargo of coffee is lost. The Cuba is entirely out of water on the reef and no hope of salvaging the steamer is entertained, according to the party who located it today.

DOUBLE KILLING IN CONGRESS
By the Associated Press.
SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 11.—Luis Correa-Ramirez, a Democratic member of the Chamber of Deputies, yesterday shot and killed Senator Zenon Torrealba in the lobby of Congress. Correa-Ramirez committed suicide immediately afterward.
The shooting of the Senator was due to a dispute over nominations by the Democratic party. Senator Torrealba having been chosen as the candidate for the senatorial seat for Santiago in the next election.

It's so Easy to make perfect
Jelly & Jams
NEW PEN-JEL
It takes minutes now, where it used to take hours, to make the most delicious jams and jellies. Neither used to be so terribly particular, too, because she knew that the least slip "in the making" resulted in spoiling many dollars' worth of sugar and fruit. But—now, with New Pen-Jel, anyone following directions can make jam and jelly without the least fear of failure—because she knows that New Pen-Jel insures success. New Pen-Jel is a pure fruit element—never spoils—very inexpensive, too. Jellies and jams can be made for less than a penny an ounce.
Try this Recipe for Delicious Grape Jelly
Place 3 cups grape juice in large preserving kettle. Add 1 package New Pen-Jel and stir until it comes to a vigorous boil. Add 3 level cups sugar and bring back to vigorous boil, cooking 2 to 4 minutes, depending on fire. Pour into glasses and perfume.

$65 Models . . . $35
$55 Models . . . $35
$45 Models . . . $35

Mannish styles tailored of polaire cloth, chinchilla and plaid and mixture sport fabrics, so much desired in Coats of this type.

Choose a fur-trimmed style if you desire, although many of the smartest are plain. Huge pockets and cuffs, swagger belts, side-tie sashes and fancy buttons are the trimmings best suited to this type of Coat.

These Coats have a masculinity about them that certain women like and cannot find in the ordinary sport coat. The straightline silhouette predominates. Lively, sport-like two-tone colorings; vertical and horizontal stripes and unconventional plaids. Silk or quilted linings. Four are pictured. (Third Floor)

WANTS PERMISSION TO SEARCH FOR BODY OF OGELTHORPE

Georgia University Would Enshrine Founder of the Original Settlement in That State.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Sept. 11.—An American institute of learning, Georgia University, has petitioned the ecclesiastical authorities for permission to do some digging in the Cranham Church, near Uppminster, Essex, to find out if the remains of Gen. Oglethorpe are there. If the body is found, the university will ask further permission to ship it across the Atlantic and place it in a shrine at the institute.
There is no doubt he was buried in the church. There is a tablet to his memory on which it is recorded that he was born in 1696 and died in 1785. An account is given also of his achievements. In June, 1732, with 20 associates, the General obtained a charter for the settlement of the Georgia Colony from King George II. He was the friend of many distinguished men of his time, among them Walpole, Goldsmith, Boswell, Burke and Pope. The last enshrined his name in a couplet.

A Mystery that would Puzzle Sherlock Holmes

THREE outstanding writers of mystery have developed in our generation. ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE is best of the three. He not only weaves fascinating mystery but deals with love and hate and other human emotions humanly.

Take his new novel, "Persons Unknown." You have never met, in a story, a more likable young woman than Ruth Balfour. She's a peach.
And when you suspect—as she begins to suspect—that her husband murdered the man to whom she had been engaged, you get a thrill of terror.

You can't help liking that husband either. He's a good scout. But he certainly has done a lot that needs explaining. He may be able to do it, but, inasmuch as Mr. Roche is holding back his last installment until the others are all in type, none of us will know till later.

stop hurting
in one minute!

For quick lasting relief from corns, Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads stop the pain in one minute by removing the cause—friction and pressure. Zino-pads are thin, safe, antiseptic, healing, waterproof and cannot produce infection or any bad after effects. Three sizes—for corns, callouses, and bunions. Cost but a trifle. Get a box today at your druggist's or shoe dealer's.

FEWER CHILDREN OF SCHOOL AGE

Decrease of 3664 in Year in This State Disclosed.
By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 11.—Missouri had 964,572 children of school age this spring, a decrease of 3664 since 1922, according to a statement by Charles A. Lee, State Superintendent of Schools. The enumeration was compiled by Lee in order to apportion the money for free textbooks to the counties.

A total of $800,000 will be apportioned this year, an increase of $200,000 over the $500,000 apportioned last year, according to Lee. The money will be sent to each of the 114 counties in early October. The amount due each county is obtained by dividing the amount of money by the number of children in each county.

Two Brothers Killed by Train.
By the Associated Press.
GRINNELL, Ia., Sept. 11.—George and Willis Coburn, brothers, of Malcolm, Ia., were killed yesterday when their truck was struck by an engine and caboose on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific tracks, west of here.

The pressure being brought to bear upon Justice Graves of the Supreme Court to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the governorship next year, the direct result of a visit to the capital 10 days ago by Congressman Hawes, of the eleventh (St. Louis) district, is said to be an attempt to eliminate the numerous other active candidates for the nomination, most of them unknown, but nevertheless active, in the hope of the promoters of the scheme that in Justice Graves will be found a candidate on whom a united action can be taken.Graves, it is said, has offered neither encouragement nor discouagement to the movement. He has said he would take the matter under advisement.Comparison of Two Pasts.
At the time the next Governor will take his seat Judge Graves will have completed half of a 10-year term of his bench. His salary as Judge is $7,000 a year. The Governor receives a salary of $5,000 a year, compensation for extra duties of something more than $1,000, and his home expenses of its upkeep. There probably is little difference in the compensation of the two positions.
The political situation which inspired the activity to produce the "harmony" candidate resulted from realization by leaders of the party that with a large field of candidates the nomination probably would go to John M. Atkinson of University City, the nominee in 1920.There is a feeling among many Democrats, particularly in St. Louis, that if the party is to be successful next year in Missouri it must attain to be able to command the full party strength in St. Louis, and that Atkinson could not carry the party vote, though it is difficult to understand how they arrive at that conclusion.Atkinson Vote in 1920.
In 1920, Atkinson ran ahead of all the remainder of the Democratic list, except Breckinridge Long, Senator for Senator, in St. Louis, and in the State as a whole. He was ahead of Cor in St. Louis and several thousand ahead of other candidates on the State ticket, maintaining approximately the same lead throughout the State.However, the campaign from the Democratic side is shaping up along anti-Ku Klux lines, at least in St.
Louis, and there is a doubt expressed that Atkinson is the man wanted to lead that character of campaign.
Enforcement of the law is likely to have a place in the campaign, and Atkinson has been looked upon with too much favor by the Anti-Klux League forces to make him acceptable to the party leaders in the city.The theory of the Graves movement is that the joining of factions in Kansas City and the support of him by leaders in all parts of the State would have the effect of keeping the element years ago known as anti-Folk and later as pro-Reed away. A Folk man who voted against Reed in the primary, would be sure to fill the requirements of a primary candidate.Graves First Appointed by Folk.
His first was appointed to the Supreme bench by Gov. Folk, and since he has been elected. For several years he and Senator Reed were bitter political enemies, though during the past few years they have been more friendly terms, sufficiently friendly, at least, for Reed to consider Graves as to whether he should be the nomination for Senator in 1924.Graves advised him to keep out of his opinion he could not be nominated. Graves supported Long after the primary joined wholeheartedly in the campaign for Reed.
Much of Atkinson's strength comes from the old Folk organization, and much of the past has been relaxed much of his support. The Democrats believe that if Graves is elected, Atkinson will lose the following would be accused that he could not win an election not announced.Other Candidates Mentioned.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 11.—The pressure being brought to bear upon Justice Graves of the Supreme Court to become a candidate for the governorship next year, the direct result of a visit to the capital 10 days ago by Congressman Hawes, of the eleventh (St. Louis) district, is a bold attempt to eliminate the numerous other active candidates for the nomination, most of them unnamed, but nevertheless active. It is the hope of the promoters of the scheme that in Justice Graves will be found a candidate on whom all factions can unite.

Graves, it is said, has offered neither encouragement nor discouragement to the movement. He has said he would take the matter under advisement.

Comparison of Two Pasts.

At the time the next Governor will take his seat Judge Graves will have completed half of a 10-year term on the bench. His salary as Judge is $15,000 a year. The Governor receives a salary of $5000 a year; compensation for extra duties of something more than $1000, and his home and many expenses of his upkeep. There probably is little difference in the remuneration of the two positions. The political situation which urged the activity to produce the "Graves" candidate resulted from realization by leaders of the party that with a large field of candidates nomination probably would go to the M. Atkinson of University City, who won in 1920.

There is a feeling among many Democrats, particularly in St. Louis, that if the party is to be successful next year in Missouri it must at least be able to command the full fifty strength in St. Louis, and that Atkinson could not carry the party, though it is difficult to understand how they arrive at that conclusion.

Atkinson Vote in 1920.

In 1920, Atkinson ran ahead of all the remainder of the Democratic ticket, except Breckinridge Long, who was elected for Senator. In St. Louis, he was the state ticket whole. He was ahead of Cox in St. Louis and several thousand ahead of other candidates on the State ticket, maintaining approximately the same lead in the State.

Moreover, the campaign from the Democratic side is shaping up along the Ku Klux lines, at least in St. Louis, and there is a doubt expressed whether Atkinson is the man wanted to carry that character of campaign.

Enforcement is likely to have a place in the campaign, and Atkinson has been looked upon too much favor by the Ku Klux League forces to be acceptable to the party leaders in the city.

The theory of the Graves movement is that the joining of factions in Kansas City and the support of party leaders in the primary would have the effect of keeping Atkinson out. Put forward by the element years ago known as the "Folk" and later as pro-Reed, it was a folk man who voted against Reed in the primary, would not fill the requirements of a primary candidate.

First Appointed by Folk.

The first was appointed to the Supreme bench by Gov. Folk, and has been elected. For several years he and Senator Reed were bitter political enemies, though during the last few years they have been on friendly terms, sufficiently friendly, at least, for Reed to concur in the nomination for Senator in 1922.

Graves advised him to keep out, but in his opinion he could not be expected to do so. He supported Long after the primary joining wholeheartedly in the campaign for Reed. Atkinson's strength comes from the old Folk organization, and Justice Graves in the past has relied much of his support. The St. Louis politicians believe that if the new Atkinson will realize the following would be so much more than he could win and would not announce.

Other Candidates Mentioned.

With the assurance former Gov. Fox has privately given many of his friends that he would not be nominated, talk of Gardner, who has ceased, and Floyd E. Brown of Kansas City and George W. St. Louis are the lead-

BERLIN, Aug. 31.

THE QUESTION of the relationship of German industry to the State has been the subject of lively discussion and serious criticism since the armistice. This seems to be the case especially in America.

As we follow the American press or glean the attitude of Americans visiting Germany, we observe that they see conditions thus—Germany a bankrupt state. Yet business and industry flourishing, forming political a state within a state, thus opposing every reasonable regulation of the reparations question. And thus evading taxes to the outer rim of the state.

These general misconceptions are furthermore related in many American minds with strange ideas of the importance and influence of certain industrial magnates. We often read in the American press that Stinnes is the uncrowned Kaiser of Germany and that he and other leaders of industry have the power of the old imperialism.

In many respects this conception does not correspond to the facts. This is brought upon us by the Versailles Treaty is shown in the figures of the Government's Statistical Bureau. The picture of retrogression of Germany's exports is not amazing when it is remembered that our position was taken away in Alsace, our iron ore in Lorraine and coal and zinc in Upper Silesia. The control of the Saar mines was given to France; the merchant fleet and all German capital held in foreign countries confiscated; our former colonies are gone.

What Peace Treaty Cost.

The peace treaty cost Germany 34.2 per cent of the total area under cultivation, thus losing for us 15 per cent of the former wheat crops and 18 per cent of potatoes.
Eighty-nine per cent of Germany's commercial fleet was taken away.
Germany's economic body resembles an emaciated corpse and the picture expresses itself in the enormous increase in imports over exports. This devaluation of our currency.

No one can say it will be possible to check this devaluation in the near future and re-establish a favorable balance in our foreign trade.
Of course, the reduced production in Germany, so evident since the war, is due partly to the introduction of the eight-hour day and consequently to the diminished productivity of German labor.

The introduction of the eight-hour day came with the political revolution but was also hastened by the fact that the average worker was physically weakened by the war. Just as we were about to increase our production within the eight-hour limit there came the occupation of the Ruhr and with it the destruction of the laboring morale. Productivity has not been altered until the present situation is sufficient strength to remove the eight-hour day.

I am personally opposed to great trust formations. Germany gained her prewar position through individual initiative. I regret that a trust development, which puts the important stock company in place of the individual, and then replaces the trust formations in Germany are signs of a sick and not a sound economic body. Lowering to the depreciated value of our currency most individual enterprises can no longer hold on to their capital without outside financial assistance. They are compelled to turn into a stock company. If in turn the stock company does not prosper, it is merged into a trust.
This development will cause the most personal Germany regains a stabilized currency.

RUMORS WILSON PLANS PUBLIC LIFE 'ARE UNFOUNDED'

He May Go on for Years by Strictly Caring for Health, but Unusual Strain Might Be Disastrous.

MUST HUSBAND HIS GAINS TO UTMOST

Condition Is About Same
That it Has Been Since He Partly Regained His Shattered Strength.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—One of the first questions that a Washington correspondent hears on any trip out of the city is: "How is Woodrow Wilson?" It is one of the first queries put by the average visitor to Washington. There is seemingly as much interest in the cloistered life being led by the former President as in the personal details of the life of either Mr. Harding or Mr.
Coolidge.

From a source well-informed and dependable, here is an answer to the question regarding Mr. Wilson's health. His condition is about the same that it has been ever since he partly regained his shattered strength. He is at the stage of comparatively good health to which he has been brought slowly by the sheer will power in the weeks of rest immediately following his departure from the White House.

Observes Strict Regimen.

That he has got as far as he has on the road to recovery from the stroke he suffered in 1919 is due to his strict observance of the regimen laid down for him by his physician. He is holding his gains by the same method. He goes through daily exercises for the benefit of his impaired left arm. Improvement has been made, but Mr.
Wilson ever again will have the full use of this arm is unlikely. Nor is it probable that the left leg, which suffered with the rest of that side of his body, ever again will let him walk without his cane. There is still a noticeable limp, a dragging movement on the left when he walks.

A nervous reaction in Mr. Wilson when he faces a battery of curious eyes is seen in the manner in which he elevates his left shoulder and presses his left arm close in, with the forearm rigid across his chest.
The movement is that of a proud and sensitive man who would consider this a physical weakness. Wilson wants no sympathy on account of any infirmity. He marches as he always has marched, "breast forward." He will go down fighting.

Just now and then it is rumored that Mr. Wilson will again take an active part in public life.
It has been said that he will go on a speaking trip all over the country. Such rumors may all be dismissed as unfounded. Mr. Wilson would engage in physical activity only against the most earnest advice of those closest to him. They realize, and believe that he realizes, that he must husband his strength to the utmost. Living as he now lives, with the most careful attention to diet and a system of exercises, he may go on for years.

On the other hand, some unusual strain or shock might prove disastrous at any moment.

One hears now and then that Mr.
Wilson, seen in his automobile on his daily excursions, is looking much better; again, that he is looking badly. It is true that his appearance does show these changes, but they do not indicate any matter of his health. He continues about the same, fundamentally, from day to day.

Mr. Wilson's day is ordered according to schedule. The schedule itself may be varied, but his observance of it. In his personal habits he is the soul of system, as he was when President.

Shaves Meticulously by Effort.

He rises normally at 7 o'clock and shaves himself. To shave, he uses a safety razor. He has to exert an effort, but he carries it out through successfully. At the breakfast table he looks through several morning papers, including the New York World and the Baltimore Sun. He is a rapid reader. In the afternoon he reads the newspapers, with pauses only for the "high spots." He grasps the essential facts of an article.

After breakfast, with the aid of his secretary, John Randolph Bolling, his brother-in-law, he tackles his correspondence. He handles on an average day 25 to 30 letters, dispatching a reply to his own signature or indicating the nature of a reply to be made. Sometimes his mail is swelled to huge proportions by some special news event or publication of some letter he has written.

The question often is asked whether Mr. Wilson is doing any

This is one of a series of intimate studies of President Coolidge, as related by his townsfolk in Northampton, Mass., where Coolidge still remains just "Cal."

(Copyright, 1923.)

FIFTY years ago Cal Lucey, then 18, left the hamlet of Kilgortin, Kerry, to try his luck in America. A few years later, his brother, James Lucey, followed, but they never so much as heard of each other until last May, when the shoemaker's friendship with Cal Coolidge brought him word of his brother.

In some manner, which the old shoemaker doesn't try to explain, word reached a hospital in California that the Vice President of the United States was looking for a man named Cal Lucey, and had been in the course of his travels about the United States. Con was there and in May James Lucey got a letter saying his brother was found. The rest of the story the old man told in a voice alternately firm with pride in the strength of Cal's friendship for him and shifty with sentiment for the fate of his brother.

"When I read that letter I was disturbed," he said, peering over his glasses. "It said that Con had been a hopeless invalid in that hospital 19 years. I didn't know what to do. Then I remembered Cal was home for a few days. While I was settin' there on my bench holdin' the letter, Joe Daly, the State detective, came in. I told him I had some news and asked him when he went up to Cal's house on Massachusetts street to tell him I'd like to see him.

"That night I had the Vice President of the United States in my shop. The old man's voice rose proudly. 'That's what he thinks of his old shoemaker friend. There was some of the boys in the shop so I waited. But they didn't go. Finally I passed the letter over to Cal. He read it and put it into his pocket. 'I'll attend to this matter right away,' Mr. Lucey, he said. 'I'll write and ask them to send further particulars.' When I saw Cal again he gave me this."

The old man held a sheet of yellow paper tenderly in his big brown fist; a carbon copy of a letter over the signature of the Vice President of the United States.

James Lucey is going out to see Con next year. He'll go right away, but such a long trip requires a deal of saving.

"I work 14 hours a day," he explains, "but I can't make much more than $5 a day even at that rate. So it takes a while to save. This house I bought; I put $5000 into it and the one next door. I gave my girls and boys a schooling, but I gave up all idea of getting rich quite a while ago."

writing for publication. The answer must be left open. Only one article, the recent brief essay in the Atlantic Monthly, has come from his pen since he left the presidency. He often has been urged to write the story of his administration and has replied that he deferred the appraisal should be left to others. He does, however, write. Frequently he spends an hour at his desk on some form of composition. There probably is some purpose behind it. For Mr. Wilson has never been an idle scribbler.

Mr. Wilson needs to write, if only to provide an outlet for a mind seething with ideas and reminiscences. Friends who have talked with him lately say that his mind was never keener or more active. He has not lost his gift of concise, forcible expression. To hear him give course on current European affairs or draw upon a fund of reminiscences extending back to his early studies with his father is described by one of his friends as a rare intellectual treat.

Mr. Wilson's correspondence consumes most of the morning. He has luncheon promptly at 1, rests for a couple of hours, and then, promptly again, either at 3 or 3:15 or 3:30, or whatever time he has elected, he goes for a drive in his car. He doesn't take the same trip every day, but one of the same three or four trips that he has mapped out, each to consume about two hours. One drive is out to Alexandria, Virginia, and another through Rock Creek Park and to the Old Soldiers' Home grounds. On each drive the chauffeur knows just where he is to turn around and return home. Mr. Wilson doesn't like fast driving on these tours, and seldom permits a speed of more than 20 miles an hour.

Except on Saturday night, when he nearly always goes to the theater, the evenings are spent in reading at home. He is a voluminous reader and of catholic taste. He is as fond of a good detective story as ever. Mrs. Wilson often reads to him.

Much of the former President's reading is concerned with world affairs. He follows the course of international events not only through American newspapers but through periodicals and personal letters from abroad. He is said to have in mind a detailed and up-to-the-minute picture of the whole foreign political situation.

Mr. Wilson's day ends at 10 p. m. for he rigorously observes the rule that he shall get plenty of sleep.

A Washington Institution.

Four or five callers a week, on the average, are seen by the former President, usually for about 20 minutes each. He likes to have old acquaintances drop in. Some of the persons who have visited him in his retirement are Cleveland H. Dodge, Cyrus McCormick, former Ambassador Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador Charles E. Crane, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson (the sister of Lady Astor), and the two Virginia Senators, Carter Glass and C. A. Swanson.

An average of five or six strangers a day ring and ask to be allowed to shake hands with the President. This is not permitted. The next request, generally, is to be told at what time that day Mr. Wilson will start on his drive. Then the inquirer, with others, waits in the street to see him come out. There is nearly always a little crowd there around 3 in the afternoon. They give the former President a cheer and respond by lifting his hat.

On Saturday nights when Mr. Wil-

Convention Would Remove Selection of Nominees for the Various Courts From General Campaign.

THREE ANNEXATION METHODS OFFERED

St. Louis Could Acquire Up to 77 Square Miles as a County or Return to St.
Louis County Bodily.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 11.—The Constitutional Convention would have nominees for Circuit Courts, Courts of Appeals and the Supreme Court chosen at a time different from that at which other nominees are selected in order that they might be as far divorced from politics as possible and not be overshadowed in the rush of a campaign for other offices, such as marks the present primary system, where judgeship often are forgotten in the heat of fights for other State positions.

The convention has proceeded to try to place the rights of the chartered cities of the State beyond the power of the legislators. All cities of 2000 population and up would be allowed under its proposals to adopt annexation and to them would be accorded the right to direct their own purely local affairs. The rights of the State to regulate matters of general concern is continued, however.

Urban communities are classified in the constitution and the Legislature is forbidden to make further classifications, which is intended to prevent the law makers from reverting to their previous custom of enacting separate laws for each community.

The right of cities to create zones for the regulation of the use of land and structures, now under question in the State Supreme Court, is written into the Constitution of this body, which also would give to the State and its subdivisions the right of excess condemnation in taking land for public improvements. The purpose of this latter provision is to provide not only the land necessary for the actual consummation of contemplated projects, but also to safeguard it from later nullification and to enable the utilization of irregular bits often left to go to weeds and waste.

Provision Affecting St. Louis.

From a purely St. Louis viewpoint, the creation in the Constitution of machinery whereby St. Louis could have its territory limits by either one of three methods is of large importance. Under them St. Louis could annex up to 77 square miles, as a county or return to St. Louis County bodily, by consent of voters of both city and county in each case, or could absorb contiguous cities for merely city purposes with consent of their voters without disturbing the county line.

Control of their own police departments subject to power of the Governor to remove the police commissioner or members of board of commissioners, would be vested in St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph whose police now are ruled from Jefferson City.

Another provision would confer upon cities the power, with consent of two-thirds of the voters in a special election, to issue bonds up to 1 per cent of their assessed valuation, to create a revolving fund out of which to finance improvements to be paid for benefit assessment, such as streets, sidewalks, sewers and the like. It is argued that this would lower the cost of such work probably 15 per cent, the convention having been informed that contractors add that much to their bid to cover cost of legal fights and boring money delays in collecting tax bills.

Long delays in collecting tax bills, which often delay the city's cash flow, would enable the city to pay cash for the improvements, thus wiping out the high interest paid to banks for money with which to finance them, and the city already has a well-organized legal staff which could fight the tax bill suits.

All Changes Debated.

All of the changes, whether received by the public with favor or rejected, have been considered thoroughly and given great freedom of debate. Probably no deliberative body ever convened in this State has seen less effort to restrict full discussion and certainly none ever came to the aid of its lack with less talk of the use of corrupt or undue influence.

So far as known only two such efforts were made to bring things about in the convention. They were of minor importance and got nowhere. The transactions of the convention will be published in a temporary adjournment Friday, the convention had closed approximately 1200.

PLAN TO SPEED UP OLD ROAD BUILDING PROGRAM

Auto Club to Feel Out Sentiment on Increasing Revenue From Motor Vehicles.

Sentiment of Missouri Legislators regarding a proposal that State receipts from motor vehicle operation be increased $2,000,000 a year, to enable completion of the present road-building program in 1928, will be ascertained by the Automobile Club of Missouri, it was decided last night at a meeting of the Board of Governors at the St. Louis Club. A majority of the Legislators are in favor of the suggestion. The Automobile Club will urge Gov. Hyde to call an extra session of the Legislature about Jan. 1 to formulate necessary laws to make possible execution of the plan.

Ray B. Britton, president of the club, was authorized to name a committee, comprising men in all sections of the State, to confer with members of the Legislature.

Britton said today this committee probably would be named Friday.

Two plans of raising the additional $2,000,000 a year were suggested last night. One seeks to increase the automobile license fee. The other would provide a tax on gasoline. With 400,000 motor vehicles registered in the State at present, it was estimated that $5 more from each automobile would raise the $2,000,000. This extra tax would be required for only four years.

Theodore Gary, chairman of the Highway Commission, speaking at the meeting last night, urged adoption of the speeding-up program, but said that the commission would not recommend such action to the Legislature, as a commission.

He said he felt the demand should come from the automobile owners.

Gary said that unless a method for raising additional money was found the road-building program would be completed under the 12 years originally contemplated. The Highway Department's administrative department will be able to take care of the additional work incident to speedier construction, he said.

Status of Building Operations.

Road contracts now effective in Missouri total about $39,000,000, half of which is chargeable to the $60,000,000 bond issue and half to the old Morgan-McCullough road law, Gary said. Only $4,200,000 of the $60,000,000 has actually been expended.

He called attention to the fact that the last Legislature passed a law permitting the Highway Commission to dispose of more than $1,000,000 of bonds a year, the limit originally set. He said, however, that present receipts from motor vehicles, the only source from which the commission is authorized to receive money, were not sufficiently high to permit issue of more than $5,000,000 in bonds in any one year.

COOLIDGE-FOR-PRESIDENT CLUB HERE APPLIES FOR CHARTER

Hugh K. Wagner, President, Says Organization Will Have Offices in Calumet Building

The "Coolidge-for-President Club" yesterday applied in the Circuit Court for a charter. Its officers are Attorney Hugh K. Wagner, president; former State Senator Edward H. Baumann, vice president; and Charles F. Meier, a Republican worker in the Thirteenth Ward, secretary and treasurer. Wagner said the club would have offices in the Calumet Building. Its purpose is to work for the nomination and election of President Coolidge in 1936.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—A drive to increase the membership of the "Coolidge-for-President" club of Chicago was launched today with the avowed purpose to round up support for the President at the next Republican national convention, although President Coolidge in a letter to the Chicago club said he would rather let such club work for his administration and contribute to its success.

"I have given no thought to the matter to which you refer," the President's letter said, "and I am merely doing what I can to take up the burden of my office. I very much prefer to discourage thought and activity in any other direction."

"The task before me is to carry to a successful conclusion the policies inaugurated by President Harding and I am sure you will understand that if I ask your help to this end, rather than in the way you have suggested, it shows no lack of appreciation of your kindness."

U. S. FACING AN IMPORTANT DECISION, GERMAN CHANCELLOR SAYS

stable political and economic conditions on the Government. This we consider the minimum task of the present and the future. Germany's reparations must be fixed to a sum which Germany can actually pay. Once this is accomplished, Germany will readily find the means to furnish the necessary quantities. A moratorium of several years must give Germany an opportunity to raise its internal production and to strengthen the purchasing power of her currency. This will have its effects on world trade, which due to the unfortunate war, was diminished by 20 per cent of its pre-war status. It will remove the chaotic currency conditions existing today throughout the world, conditions which affect the high value countries like Switzerland just as much as the low value countries like Germany, Austria, Poland and Russia. It will relieve the unemployment problem in England and other countries just as it will remove the dumping possibilities of German exporters.

American Observer's View.
A prominent American recently told me in Cologne that, although the downfall of German trade and industry was not a question of life and death for the United States, it was significant for the United States, as American prosperity depended on a sound European economic life, of which Germany still is considered the heart.
The United States is facing an important decision in world trade. America can leave Europe to its own fate in the belief that it is strong enough to ignore eruptions in other countries. I personally doubt your economic strength is as great as that, but, at any rate, America should, for moral reasons alone, not ignore the threatening catastrophe. In opposition to erroneous conceptions held by many Americans, I plead for a just consideration of Germany's present situation, for a just and objective consideration of the Government's position as well as that of our industry. I plead further for the reconstruction of Germany, not alone for Germany's own sake, but for the welfare of peace and order and progress in the world at large, as well as for the maintenance of civilization. And I raise my voice in favor of the present form of government and against the longing desire of communism to take the reign of things in its hands.

ers against Atkinson. Moore's announcement several weeks ago did not arouse the Democrats over the State as it was expected, it would, and while at this time it appears he has the support of the St. Louis organization, there are few indications of a strong following out in the State. Graves' candidacy, if promoters believe, would take organization support from Moore.

Jacobs is one of the Shannon faction in Kansas City, and apparently would need the support of the Pendergast faction there to win. Pendergast has not committed himself, but his following is promoting the candidacy of former Senator and former District Attorney Francis M. Wilson of Kansas City. There are conflicting reports as to Pendergast's attitude toward Jacobs, one being that he has said privately that under no condition would he support a Shannon man, and the other being that Shannon and Pendergast will get together on Jacobs as they have a number of times on other candidates.

In 1920 Pendergast supported Atkinson, which he is not likely to do next year.

Shannon and Graves Friendly.
Shannon and Graves have been friendly for many years, and there is no known reason why Pendergast should not support Graves, particularly if Senator Reed should look with favor on Graves as a harmony candidate. The other prospective seekers of the nomination, State Senator Paintor of Carrollton, Stephen B.

Hunter of Cape Girardeau and Dr. Arthur Nelson of Buncheon so far have not been looked upon as real contenders, and while undoubtedly seems would be taken to bring deals which would eliminate the they have not yet been taken to serious consideration.

Don't Neglect That Bad Back!

ARE you lame every morning; tired all day; tortured with throbbing backache? Do you feel old and stiff; tired, nervous and depressed? You shouldn't! These are signs of weakening kidneys and kidney trouble is too serious to neglect. You can't be well unless your kidneys are functioning properly. They are the blood-filters. Once they fall behind, the whole system is upset. Your back aches; you are lame and stiff; suffer sharp, stabbing pains at every sudden move and have headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities. You feel tired and weak—nervous and worn-out. But why continue in this miserable condition? Why not help your weakened kidneys before it is too late? Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These St. Louis Folks Found Relief:

SAMUEL KILPATRICK, prop. Kilpatrick Welding Co., 3425 Lindell Ave., says: "I have been bothered with lumbago every spring. After sitting I could not get up without taking hold of something to assist me, and when getting down into my chair I had to hold onto the arms of the chair and then go down with a thump. My back pained severely, and as Doan's Kidney Pills had been recommended I used them. Doan's cured me, and for the first time in ten years I did not have an attack of lumbago."

MRS. DAVID ENGLEHARDT, 3932 Lee St., says: "I am always ready to speak a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills. My back was sore and tired and I could hardly do my housework. It seemed like a load of bricks was on my back. There was an annoying grinding pain all through my back, but it was Doan's Kidney Pills that brought me out all right, and from that day to this I have always praised them, for they do what is claimed for them. Whenever I get the least sign of any of my old trouble I take a few Doan's Kidney Pills and they do me up again with the same good results."

GEO. M. STEALEY, Pressman, 3818 Slaters St., says: "I am glad to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills, for I know their curative powers. I believe them to be the best kidney remedy on the market today. I have tried thirty-two hours at a time at the same time and this made my back and legs so lame and sore I could hardly stand. The strain I put on my kidneys, disordered them. I used Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's always helped such troubles, making the stronger I am now."

Another Opportunity! Sensational Electric Washer Offer Is Extended—50 more sets of the Todd Drain-a-Tubs FREE!

No other offer ever made in the selling of labor-saving appliances for the home created the sensation as did our free offer of a set of the wonderful Todd Drain-a-Tubs free in combination with the Western Electric Washer. The whole two hundred and fifty sets that we were authorized to give free are gone. Because so many women were disappointed, we have prevailed upon the makers to provide us with fifty more sets to be given free—when these fifty sets are gone, the offer positively stops.

A double opportunity never before offered women

For the first time, a complete laundry equipment—all the labor of washday gone. No rubbing, no hand wringing, no carrying of water, no lifting of tubs. The greatest of all Electric Washers. The only one made and guaranteed by fifty-six years of electrical experience, the only one made and guaranteed by the largest makers of electrical equipment in all the world.

And in addition to the finest of Electric Washers—two of the wonderful new Todd Drain-a-Tubs—the greatest labor saver since the invention of the Electric Washer. These tubs fit directly from the faucet, empty directly into the drain. Roll easily, on special casters. Made of copper-steel and hold sixteen gallons of water. And these marvelous labor-saving tubs are given free.

250 sets gone—only 50 sets left

250 sets, our original allotment, were entirely gone within a very short time. How long are the fifty additional sets to last? And when these fifty sets are gone, the sale ends.

Don't delay!

There's not a day or an hour to be lost if you are to have the one complete laundry equipment—doing away with all the rubbing, all the carrying, all the lifting of washday. Fifty additional sets of Todd Drain-a-Tubs free—and the offer is over.

Noice Describes Ice to Rescue On Desolate

For Five Successive Days Boat Bucked Floes and Fended Off Threatening Ice Cakes—Grim Arctic Scene Caused Foreboding

By HAROLD NOICE
Commander of the Wrangel Island Relief Expedition.

NOME, Alaska, Sept. 3.—"Wrangel Island or Bust" was our slogan when we left Point Hope behind Aug. 9 and headed northwest into the Arctic Ocean. Would we through? What would we find? That forlorn Arctic island? We found the little party alive and still waiting patiently for the succor which had been so painfully long coming? Or would we find nothing but the corpses of the gallant band? Crawford and Galle I had known, but in Toronto last spring had met Crawford's parents and a sister, a fine, courageous family waiting bravely for word of their brilliant and promising son. I had heard of the expedition, but to me, but I had heard a great deal from Stefansson and others who had been with him on the particular branch of the 1913-18 expedition which he was a member. Knight had known well. He and I had been with Stefansson on a number of his long sledge journeys in North and we were once fellow-travelers with scurvy when our camp brought us promptly back to health on a rigorous diet of raw-eat meat.

Visualize Missing Party.
I could visualize the little party they landed on the island in September, 1921, full of youthful enthusiasm. I could see them with a well-stocked larder comfortably housed for that first long winter, tending intervals their lines of traps. I could imagine their relief as the sun turned and later on the new ice began to move. It was not for me to realize their terrible appointment as the summer passed and the ice failed to open up sufficiently for a ship to get through. Or, perhaps, the ice had cleared away for a few days, or maybe for a week, and no ship had come. They would climb to the top of the nearest hill and gaze out over the ocean for sight of a sail! Then, perhaps, the ice had closed in again and they would have to wait. But they would hope for relief until the end. Would their courage suffice for another winter?

It was hard, moreover, to gloom on such a day. The sea was free of ice; the temperature around 50 degrees, and the Donaldson, her deck cluttered with walrus-hide boots, 20 shaggy Eskimo dogs, sleds, hunting gear and the various impedimenta of an Arctic expedition, pluggers, staid ahead in spite of a stiff westerly wind which we had encountered shortly before rounding the point. The next day we began to look for ice, as we had made considerable progress north and could now expect to meet it almost any time.

Noice Describes Fight Against Ice to Rescue Party Marooned On Desolate Wrangel Island

NOME, Alaska, Sept. 3.—"Wrangel Island or Bust" was our slogan when we left Point Hope behind us. We headed northwest into the Arctic Ocean. Would we get through? What would we find on that frozen Arctic island? Would we find the little party alive and waiting patiently for the succor which had been so painfully long in coming? Maurer was also unknown to me, but I had heard a great deal from Stefansson and others who had been with him on the particular branch of the 1913-14 expedition of which he was a member. Knight I had known well. He and I had been with Stefansson on a number of the latter's long arctic journeys in the North and we were once fellow-intruders with scurvy when our chief brought us promptly back to health on a rigorous diet of raw caribou meat.

Visualizing Missing Party.
I could visualize the little party as they landed on the island in September, 1913, full of youthful enthusiasm. I could see them with a well stocked larder comfortably housed for that first long winter, tending at intervals their lines of traps. I could imagine their relief as the sun returned and later on the new departed from the land and the ocean ice began to move. It was not hard for me to realize their terrible disappointment as the summer passed and the ice failed to open up sufficiently for a ship to get through. Or, perhaps, the ice had cleared away for a few days, or maybe longer, and no ship had come. How they would climb to the top of the nearest hill and gaze out over the ocean for sight of a wall! Then, perhaps, the ice had closed in again not to leave for that year. But they would hope for relief until the last. Would their courage suffice for another winter?

It was hard, moreover, to be gloomy on such a day. The sea was free of ice; the temperature was around 50 degrees, and the Donaldson, her deck cluttered with two walrus-hide boats, 20 shaggy Eskimo dogs, sleds, hunting gear and all the various impedimenta of an Arctic expedition, plugged steadily ahead in spite of a stiff westerly wind which we had encountered shortly before rounding the point.

The next day we began to look for

The following message is the exclusive personal story of Harold Noice, commander of the Wrangel Island Relief Expedition, who returned to Nome, Alaska, Aug. 31, after his dash into the Arctic to rescue four white men and one Eskimo woman marooned there since September, 1921. The party he sought was landed on Wrangel Island under instructions from Vilhjalmur Stefansson, polar explorer, to claim it for the British King on behalf of Canada. A relief ship was to have visited the island the following year, but, owing to heavy ice, was unable to reach the marooned party, who were forced to pass another year of exile. No word had been heard from them or of them since they landed in 1921, and grave fears had been expressed regarding their safety. Harold Noice, though young, already a veteran of the Arctic, was chosen this year to lead the rescue expedition, with instructions to get through without fail.

still, so far as we could see from the boat, the ocean was all big green seas without a suggestion of the pack.

Trapped in Field of Ice.
Then during the night the temperature dropped to 37 degrees and at 4:30 a. m., Aug. 11, we ran into a field of scattered ice which we began to work through. But as we advanced the ice ahead became more tightly packed and we shortly found ourselves unable to move against it. We squirmed back into clear water and then turned southwest along the edge of the floe in search of an opening which might carry us on our way to Wrangel.

Then, almost without warning, down came the fog. As if matters were not already bad enough, the engines, which had been severely tested in the fight with the ice floes, gave up the struggle and, with a last despairing gurgle, subsided into silence. I rushed to the engine room to see what was the matter while the crew and Eskimos stood by with long poles to fend us off from the ghostly shadows which ever and anon loomed through the fog.

"What's the matter with the damned thing now?" I inquired. Williams and Earle, the engineers, were feverishly overhauling the most vulnerable parts of the mechanism, and at length announced that the needle valve had broken.

Narrowly Escape Iceberg.

Suddenly a vast white mass, like a ghostly floating castle, with thousands of tons of green-pea colored water cascading from its battlements as it rose and sank ponderously in the swell, bore down upon us. We were between it and the line of the pack, and for a few minutes it seemed that our craft must be crushed. Then in a few moments we heard the thrice-welcome clug of the engines. The engineers had overcome, temporarily, the effect of the broken needle valve by squirting gasoline into the carburetor. One man stood at the carburetor and the other at the clutch, and in this way we were enabled, just in time, to back out of our dangerous position. With the first officer, Hans Olaf, at the wheel and myself in the rigging, we worked the boat clear of the floe, and then with the wheel hard to starboard we sheered off just in time to avert a collision.

Shortly after, the fog lifted and we could see smooth, open water beyond a long tongue of firm ice which projected out to the westward. We had to follow this for several miles before we were able to round its point and gain comparative shelter in its lee. We then tied up to a large floe and allowed the engineers to finish their job.

Blocked Again by Ice.

The pack ahead was for the most part composed of heavy shore ice which had evidently drifted away from the land, for we saw a good deal of sand and dirt upon it. The next day came into another stretch of open water with the edge of the pack running north by west. We followed along this for about twenty-four miles and finally found our progress blocked by a great sheet of ice running east and west. We then decided to buck the pack again, heading directly for Wrangel, which was by now only about thirty miles distant. And then down came the fog once more; and closer crept the ice fields. We drifted with the current in the direction of Herald Island thirty-eight miles west of Wrangel. This was 2 a. m., August 13. The fog held all that day and until the afternoon of the next, when it cleared sufficiently for me to take an observation. I found that our drift during the preceding forty hours had brought us within seven miles of Herald Island.

Then for five days we alternately bucked ice, drifted backed up and fought off menacing ice cakes. It was one continual succession of foxes, with rain and mist falling in the intervals.

Wrangel Island Sighted.

As we slowly approached Wrangel the pack became more open, the leads of water between the floes became freer of obstructions and we had to buck less solid ice. Finally, on August 29, we smashed through the last barrier and entered a narrow lane of water which bordered the east coast of Wrangel Island.

Wrangel Island at last! The goal we had worked so hard to attain was ours! But what of the people we had come to find? For any sign or sound of life the island might have been the abode of the dead. Seen in twilight—for it was midnight and the Arctic sun had already sunk below the horizon—Wrangel Island did not have a prepossessing appearance. Pilot Point, a grim, forbidding-looking wall of rock, rose up from the polar scene to fling its grotesque silhouette against the purple sky.

It seemed to us that no human being could find a foothold, let alone a living, in such a desolate place. The black cliff, the somber tones of the sky, coupled with the superstitious dread of the Eskimos in approaching unfamiliar land—which unconsciously communicated itself to the rest of us—all combined to shake my confidence in Wrangel as a worthwhile place for colonization. A vague apprehension that all was not well assailed me. These thoughts were but momentary, for immediately I reflected that Wrangel was a large island; that there were doubtless fairer aspects of its coastline than that which we were skirting and that our people would probably be found farther ahead where the coast was less rugged and forbidding.

We turned south and steamed along under the weird skyline in a narrow lane between the ice and the wall of rock. Our progress, in the dusky reflection of the cliffs, set up a line of waves that raced and broke against the sides of our narrow channel, while the exhaust of the engine rose up with sharp staccato reports which reverberated back and forth between the ice and the cliffs. After reaching Cape Hawaii, the northeast corner of the island, we steamed along the gradually lowering south coast, keeping as close to the beach as possible, and blowing the whistle at minute intervals to attract the attention of any person who might be living along the coast.

LAXITY IN INSPECTION CHARGED

Union Men Accuse East St. Louis Building Commissioner.

Criticism of Building Commissioner Charles Guenther of East St. Louis was made before the East St. Louis City Council yesterday by representatives of the Building Trades Council, representatives of which asserted that houses of faulty construction built by contractors employing nonunion men were being approved by Guenther. William Walter, one of the union speakers, stated that the East St. Louis building code was being violated in the construction of a large number of houses. He charged that repeated efforts to have Guenther make inspections of houses alleged to be poorly built had failed. The Council referred the complaint to Commissioner Connors, who has charge of the office of the Building Commissioner. Guenther, formerly was a building contractor.

NAVY CONTINGENT FOR AIR RACES TO REACH CITY ABOUT SEPT. 20

36 Enlisted Men and Nine Pilots Coming—Some Will Fly From Far Distant Points.

The navy contingent of 36 enlisted men and nine pilots, who are to participate in the international air races in St. Louis, Oct. 1, 2 and 3, will reach St. Louis about Sept. 20. The pilots are now at Anacostia Field, near Washington, D. C., where they have been undergoing intensive training since Aug. 1. The detail is in command of Lieutenant Commander Marc Mitscher, with Lieut. Holcombe second in command. Nearly one-half of the detail comprises Marines, who will fly to St. Louis Field from far distant points, six planes coming from San Diego, Cal., and the same number each from Hayti and Pensacola, Fla. They will establish a camp at the field and have their own mess. All of the detail are selected men, including some of the best mechanics in the navy.

Most of the navy ships entered for the races will fly to St. Louis, including the big torpedo-carrying planes and the Martin bombers entered for the Merchants' Exchange trophy, and the observation planes entered for the Liberty Engine Builders' trophy. Half a dozen utility planes, for observation work along the course, also will be brought here.

The four "mystery ships" entered by the navy in the Pulitzer trophy race are still under cover, however, and will be shipped to the field in sections and set up here. Two of them are Wright racers of the latest type and two are Curtiss types.

The army will fly some of its contesting planes to St. Louis and others will be shipped and assembled here. The army contingent is expected to arrive shortly after the navy men come.

Seeks Nephew, Missing a Year.
Mrs. George Hafner of 2324 North Market street has requested the police to try to find her nephew, Russell O. Hamack of St. James, Mo., who has been missing for a year. Hamack, who is 22 years old, was working for the Pennsylvania Railroad at Freedom, Pa., and last October wrote saying he was returning home by way of Chicago. He sent his suitcase ahead, but has never been heard from since.

AUTO FRACTURES BOY'S SKULL

Driver Declares That He Ran in Front of Machine.

Walter Rasmek, 10 years old, of 1448 Sarsfield avenue suffered a fracture of the skull and internal injuries at 7:30 last night when hit by an automobile at Cass avenue and Twenty-first street. The driver, Edward Moeller of Clayton, said the boy ran in front of his machine.

Others slightly hurt in automobile accidents yesterday were James H. Mahon, 48, of 5344 Easton avenue, hit at Arsenal street and King's highway. Bud Moran, 12, of 3854 North Market street, run down when playing ball in front of his home. Frank Conley, 13, of 506 South Broadway, hit in front of his home. and George Flowers, 23, of 823 Hickory street, injured when his truck was hit by a Cherokee car at Twelfth and Hickory streets.

Housing Trust to Be Liquidated.

Liquidation of the American Union Housing Trust is being completed and all but about five of the certificate holders have called for checks for the surrender value of their contracts. In an article in the Post-Dispatch last Thursday it was erroneously stated that the assets of the trust were to be taken over by the recently organized Town and Country Savings and Loan Association. State Finance Commissioner Millspaugh, who was appointed receiver for the trust on May 4, said such a plan had been proposed, but that he later reached an agreement with officers of the trust to liquidate the accounts.

HOHENSCHILD TRIAL IN JOPLIN

Case Set for Oct. 22 on Change of Venue.

The trial of H. H. Hohenschild, president of the defunct Night and Day Bank, on one of several charges of assenting to acceptance of deposits in the bank when it was in a failing condition, has been set for Oct. 22, at Joplin, Mo., where it was taken on a change of venue. Similar charges are pending against former Gov. Major, Judge William H. Allen of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, and Phil McDermott, directors in the bank, and also will be tried in Joplin.

Former State Senator Howard Gray of Carthage and former Congressman Pearl Decker of Joplin have been retained to assist St. Louis counsel for Hohenschild in defense of the case. Circuit Attorney Sidgwick will be aided in the prosecution by Prosecuting Attorney Coyne of Jasper County.

ROUTE CHANGED AFTER PART OF ROAD IS BUILT

Action of State Highway Commission in Chariton County Causes Much Criticism.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SALISBURY, Mo., Sept. 7.—Law suits, mysterious employment of attorneys, concealment of the source from which the lawyers are to receive their fees, open charges of favoritism and behind-the-back accusations of a more serious nature characterize the activities of the State Highway Department in the construction of a 12-mile section of the northern St. Louis-Kansas City State highway between Salisbury and Brunswick in Chariton County.

Just now work on the road, two miles of which have been completed, has been stopped awaiting a decision by the Missouri Supreme Court on a motion of the department for permission to dismiss its suit for the condemnation of right-of-way for a relocation of the road. This admittedly is an attempted legal trick to prevent the landowners from prosecuting an injunction suit to restrain the department from taking their land.

Suspensions of Favoritism.
The extremely muddled condition may be merely the result of a failure of the department through its attorneys to "play its cards on the table" and to be entirely frank with the public. However, the concealments which have been practiced have served to arouse here an antagonism to the department through suspicions that favoritism has directed the location of the road.

It has been developed through legal proceedings that T. F. Fulkerson, president of the Argyle State Bank in Kansas City, is the owner of a 500-acre tract of land to which the Highway Department diverted the road from its old location, and that Fulkerson's personal attorney in Chariton County, former State Senator John D. Taylor of Keytesville, is attorney for the Highway Department in litigation growing out of the relocation of the road.

It has been developed that Fulkerson gave $500 toward paying for right-of-way for the new location, and that he conferred with Taylor about the matter.

Lawyer Denies Receiving Fee.
Taylor denied he was receiving a fee from Fulkerson, but resisted efforts of the owners of land along the original route of the road to learn by whom he had been employed.

The fact that Fulkerson formerly resided in Trenton, Mo., the home of Gov. Hyde, has been seized upon by the landowners as an evidence that official influence was brought to bear upon the Highway Commission to favor Fulkerson. However, there is not the slightest evidence that Gov. Hyde had anything to do with the relocation of the road or that he now has or ever has had any connection with Fulkerson, who has not lived in Trenton for many years.

The traveled road from Salisbury to Brunswick is along the ridge of the hills between the two towns. Under the old McCullough-Morgan road law that was designated as the route of the east and west highway of the county. Something more than a year ago the present State Highway Commission let a contract for the construction of three miles of the road just west of Salisbury, and land owners on the remainder of the route were approached for right-of-way, giving rise to the opinion that the State highway was to follow that route.

Usual Situation Developed.
There developed the usual situation of two or three land owners holding out for excessive damages, though no serious effort was made to bring them into line to volunteer the right of way or accept nominal damages. It now appears that if serious effort had been made no particular difficulties would have been encountered.

These owners were startled early last spring to learn that when two miles of the road had been completed, the contractor had been ordered to stop work, and the Highway Department announced that it had decided to relocate the road, carrying it a mile or more south of the first location, but using the completed two miles in the relocated road.

An indignation meeting of land owners along the original route and about half those on the new route was held, and Roy McKittick, an attorney of Salisbury, was employed to resist the condemnation proceedings and to attempt to force the department to proceed on the route originally chosen.

Charges of Objections.
McKittick filed an answer for the land owners who objected to the new route across their land, and alleged that the sole purpose of changing the route was to benefit Fulkerson, who, he alleged, had entered into a secret agreement with agents of the Highway Commission, under which he agreed to pay all land damages, attorneys' fees and costs in obtaining the new right-of-way. It was alleged that no offer was made to the owners for their land, a proceeding alleged to be legally necessary before bringing condemnation suits.

McKittick announced that he would insist upon the presence of Chairman Gary of the Highway Commission, Chief Engineer Piepmeyer and Fulkerson as witnesses in the trial, and there was something in the nature of an attorneys' agreement that they would be on hand. When the case was called neither Gary nor Piepmeyer was on hand, and over McKittick's objections the case was tried.

All of McKittick's efforts to produce the proof of the allegations in the action of the Court in sustaining his answer were frustrated through objections made by Taylor. Admission of County Judge Presiding Judge Herring of the County Court denied Fulkerson had agreed to reimburse the county for the cost of the right-of-way, though he admitted the County Court had guaranteed this cost to the Highway

Makes You Feel so Good the Next Morning.

The old-time calomel was the best medicine in the world and the only thing that could straighten out a dis-ordered liver, but it had some serious drawbacks. The griping and the sickening after-effects made many people afraid to take it. Now you can take calomel without the slightest objection. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all.
No taste, no griping, no nausea, no suits. Next morning your liver is clean, your system purified and you are feeling fine—with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

Calotabs are so near perfect that your druggist is authorized to refund the price if you are not delighted.

RELIEF FUND EXPECTED TO EXCEED $5,000,000

Every Cent Will Be Used for "Actual Relief," Red Cross Chairman States.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Contributions to the nation's relief fund for the Japanese earthquake sufferers are expected by Red Cross officials here today to pass the $5-000,000 minimum asked. Approximately $800,000 was needed.
A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Red Cross had been called to take action on the cabled request of Ambassador Woods that $1,000,000 be placed at the immediate disposal of the organization's relief committee in Japan for quick purchase of vitally needed supplies.
The urgency of the situation also was stressed in a dispatch to the Navy Department from Admiral Anderson, who described conditions as "terrible and beyond estimation of future needs."

A statement emphasizing that "every cent of this money now being collected will be utilized for actual relief" was issued last night by Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross.

Standard Oil Sends 2 Ships.
New York's contribution through the American Red Cross has grown to $1,547,200.

The Standard Oil Co. added $30-000 to its contribution and sent two tank steamers with water, food, clothing and medical supplies to the stricken area.

Ambassador Hanabara presented to Secretary Hughes a message from Count Yamamoto, Prime Minister of Japan, expressing the deep sense of gratitude of the Japanese sovereign and people and declaring that "this precious gift of American sympathy" cannot but "serve the peace of the world, in drawing still closer the bond of friendship and trust between
the two countries."

Message of Prime Minister.
"At a time when Japan was making her best endeavor to follow the letter and spirit of the Versailles treaty and the Washington treaties, which we believe have laid the foundation of world peace and will greatly promote human welfare," the Prime Minister said, "the empire was visited by a most appalling disaster, in which all the elements combined."

"In this hour of deep grief and anxiety, felt alike by the Emperor and all his subjects, the President of the United States issued a proclamation urging the American people to come to the aid of the stricken people of Japan and designating the American Red Cross to administer the relief work. Then the commander of the American Asiatic fleet lost no time in dispatching the ships under his command to the scene of the disaster and offered the services of the entire fleet for immediate relief of the sufferers. Some of these vessels already have arrived in the harbor of Yokohama.
At the same time the Philippine Government sent transports loaded with full cargoes for the relief."

Expresses Japan's Gratitude.
"In the midst of the bewildering devastation American Ambassador Woods, together with the staff of the embassy and Americans resident in Japan, are helping the relief work with a marvelous spirit of self-sacrifice, in spite of the fact that the embassy was destroyed by the fire."

"The reports of these spontaneous and prompt measures taken by the President, the Government and the people of the United States are creating a profound impression in the grateful hearts of suffering Japan."

"With these facts in mind I desire to express in the name of the Japanese Government their most heartfelt thanks to the American Government, and at the same time to convey to the President and people of the United States the deep sense of gratitude of my sovereign and of the entire nation of Japan for this noble manifestation of sincere and generous sympathy. I am happy in believing that this precious gift of greatest trial for the Japanese nation cannot but serve the peace of the world in drawing still closer the bond of friendship and trust between

Man Who Started Gasoline Price
Drop Says Distribution System Is Blunder.

By the Associated Press.
SIOUX FALLS, N. D., Sept. 11.—
Gov. William H. McMaster of South Dakota, whose recent effort to force down the price of gasoline was followed by reductions throughout the country, declared yesterday, in an address at the New York State Fair, that "the whole distribution system will have to be reorganized on a sound basis to effect the proper economics which in the end will be of substantial benefit to the public."

"The present distribution system," he said, "is a blunder."
He expressed the belief that in the great majority of cities and towns of the country there were 50 per cent more filling stations than were necessary.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa discussed the agricultural situation in the Middle West, declaring that the farmers' remedy lay in economic co-operation.

PILES Cured Without the KNIFE

No Cutting, No Chloroform, No Hospital, No Danger, No Loss of Time.
TELL YOUR FRIENDS. You and they need the right kind of treatment.
Treatment that CURES.

WHY SHOULD YOU HESITATE. IF IN DOUBT GO AND TALK TO THOSE WHOSE LETTERS I PUBLISH FROM TIME TO TIME.

I could fill this entire paper with letters similar to Mrs. Grillon's, but the cost would be too great.
This advertisement contains a letter written by Mrs. August Grillon of 1414 Warren street, who comes to my office for over five years. Had been doctored many times that there was no cure for her, excepting by an operation, and that she must go to the hospital for it.

Mrs. Grillon's affliction was Piles and Fistula. She was in a terrible form, together with other complications, that she had paid out over $500.00 trying to get cured, had suffered terribly, and was in a deplorable condition when she came to me on July 6th.

It is well worth the time of any man or woman who is afflicted with Piles, Fistula, Hemorrhoids, or any rectal trouble, to call and talk to Mrs. Grillon. You are looking for a cure, as was she when she came to my office.

There is no doubt but that she got what she came after; so will you if you come and then do as she did. Be consistent; use common sense, as in anything you undertake.

Don't think that after you have been sick with some rectal trouble for from one to forty years that I can cure you in a day. For I can't—but I can cure you, no matter how long standing your case is if you will do your part.

Also remember that a case of Piles, with other complications, requires more time than a simple case of Piles. I have had people come to me who had suffered for many years. Take one, two or three treatments, then say: Doctor, I'm not well. And perhaps they will never come back. Does the person who does this way deserve much consideration? I know they won't get well by my, or any other treatment when they do that way. All I ask when you put your case in my hands is to use common sense.

Why go on suffering when a positive, guaranteed cure is within your reach?
Remember, I give consultation and make examinations at my office FREE of charge and give consultation by mail. Call or write today—it will pay you.

Real Beauty in Rubber Fountain Pens

THE new Wahl Pen in engine-turned black rubber is unlike any fountain pen you have ever seen. Anyone who writes will be proud to own a pen of such grace and splendid writing performance. It is as practical as it is beautiful.

The man's-size fist with the cast-iron grip will find a Wahl Pen to fit it. And so will the dainty feminine hand. There are sizes and shapes to suit every man and woman in college or business.

Wahl Pen is made by the makers of Ever-sharp. It is another leader. The Wahl filling device fills the pen brim-full of ink every time.

The Wahl comb feed regulates the flow so that the pen writes the instant you touch it to paper. You never have to shake it.
The ink never floods.

The everlasting nib is 14-karat gold, tipped with the hardest, finest iridium. Unbiased experts say it is the ultimate in nib-making.

Clipped in pocket, purse or note book,
Wahl Pen cannot leak—the patented cap construction prevents it. Wahl Pen is so perfectly balanced and proportioned that it seems made just for your hand alone. It writes perfectly. Ask your dealer about

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

The spirit of service

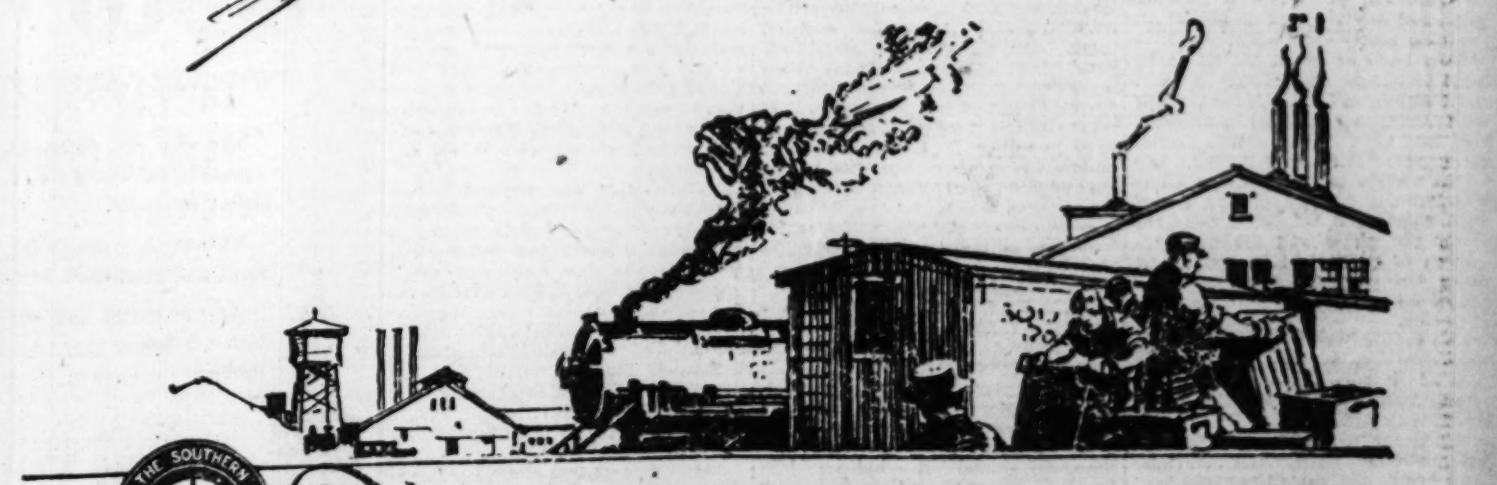

To provide freight and passenger transportation for the millions of patrons of the Southern Railway System requires the services of 60,000 men and women and the use of railroad properties in which $710,000,000 has been invested.

This is the largest business enterprise in the South, and one of the largest in the world. It is an institution of the South, operated by men bred in the traditions of the South.

We of the Southern, well knowing that the successful operation of this great transportation service depends upon our gaining and holding the good will of the Southern people, appraise our day's work not in the cold figures of income accounts and balance sheets, but in the value that the South places on Southern Railway service.

"The Southern serves the South" is the spirit of the day's work of the men and women of the Southern Railway System, who are serving you night and day on 8,300 miles of lines throughout the South.

Southern Railway System deposits in Southern Negro Convict Stabbed.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 11.—E. Dyer, a convict of Polk County, serving a life sentence, stabbed and probably fatally, wounded John Washington, negro convict, late yesterday. The men quarreled in the prison shoe factory, according to penitentiary officials. Dyer turned on Washington, plunging a knife into the negro's stomach.

PRESIDENT C

THE DAY OF THE BIG THRILL IN BELLEVILLE

Two of these pictures by a Post-Dispatch staff photographer were taken while Belleville and St. Louis police were endeavoring to kill or capture W. H. Cochran, who had shot his wife, his mother-in-law and two policemen. The other two were taken after Cochran's barricade had been stormed. The crowd in the vicinity while the shooting was going on jammed nearby streets. The last attack on the house by detectives shows how thoroughly the glass had been shot from the windows. Cochran was carried out a short time after this picture was taken. Another picture was taken as he was being carried away. The torn-up kitchen gave mute evidence of the violence within the house before the police entered.

In the hallway, of The Iron Tavern, as Dago George descended the stairs from Dave Henderson's room, a slim little figure in black, heavily veiled, stood waiting. Beside her, the greasy waiter, who had previously conveyed Dave Henderson's message to the proprietor, bowed and scraped and wiped his hands on his spotted apron, and pointed to Dago George on the stairs.

"Dat-a da boss," he announced. A taxi chauffeur had already deposited two valises in the hall, and had retired. Outside, as the taxi moved away, another taxi, a short, but discreet, distance up the block, started suddenly out from the curb, as its fare, a fat man who chewed upon the butt of a cigar, dug his pudgy fingers into his vest pocket, and handed his chauffeur an address.

"Baggage and all—that's good enough!" said the fat man to himself, and to the chauffeur: "Beat it—and beat it fast!"

The waiter retired from the hall. The almost imperceptible frown on Dago George's face at sight of the valises was hidden by an ingratiating smile as he hurried forward. "Madam," he inquired, "you desire to see me?"

The little figure in black nodded her head.

"Yes—in private," she answered quietly.

"Ah!" Dago George bowed profoundly. "But, yes—certainly! This way, then, if you please, madam."

He led the way into the rear room, and closed the door. The little figure in black raised her veil.

"Do you not know me?" she asked.

Dago George stared for a long minute into her face. He shook his head.

"I am desolated!" he murmured apologetically. "It is my memory that is unbelievably stupid, madam."

"I am Teresa Capriano," she said.

Dago George moved closer. He stared again into her face, and suddenly into his own there came the light of recognition.

"You—the so-little Teresa—the little bambino!" he cried. "But, yes—yes, it is true!" He caught both her hands, and began to pat them effusively. "Is it possible? Yes, yes! I begin to see again the little girl of the so-many years ago! Ah, no; Dago George has not forgotten after all! The little Teresa! The little bandit queen! Eh? And you—do you remember that we called you that?" He led her to a chair and seated her. "Well, well, the little Teresa! And your father, my good friend Nicolò—I had heard that he was sick. He is better—yes? And he is perhaps here, too, in New York?"

"My father is dead," Teresa answered in a low voice.

"Dead!" Dago George drew back, and stared again, but in a curiously bewildered way now. "Dead!" he repeated. "You say that Nicolò Capriano is—dead?"

"Yes," she said, and turned her face away from his gaze—only to raise her eyes again, and watch the man covertly, narrowly, as he now began to walk rapidly up and down the room with quick, nervous strides. Her hands tightened a little on the arms of her chair. Here was the end of that long race across the continent, the goal of those fearsome, harried days of haste in San Francisco while her father lay dead. Was she first or last in that frantic race? What did Dago George know? A thousand times she had pictured this scene, and planned for it every word and act that was to be hers—but it was actually now, and the room for an instant seemed to swirl around her. She remembered Dago George—as one of the most crafty, callous and unscrupulous of the lawless band over whom the man who had been her father had reigned as king. The letter! Had Dago George received it—yes or no? Had Dave Henderson reached here before her? Was he already in danger; or did it require but just a simple bit of acting on her part to undo the treachery of which her father had been guilty—a simple story, for instance, that she was on her way to her father's people in Italy, which would enable her to stay here at this place unsuspected until Dave Henderson came, and she could intercept him, and warn him before any harm was done? Which was it? She dared not ask. If Dago George knew nothing, he must at all costs continue to know nothing. A hint, and Dago George, if he were the Dago George of old, would be like a bloodhound on the scent, and, exactly as though Dago George had actually received her father's letter, Dave Henderson would be the quarry. But if, on the other hand, the letter had already been delivered, well, then—then there was another role to play. She dared not ask; not until Dago George had shown his hand, not until she was sure of her own ground. She turned her head away again. Dago George had halted abruptly in front of her chair. "Dead!" he said uneasily. "You say Nicolò Capriano, that your father, is dead?"

Teresa nodded without looking up. Dago George, as abruptly as he had halted, turned and patted the length of the room and back again, and abruptly halted once more in front of her. He leaned toward her, one hand now laid over his heart.

First Aid for Dislocations

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.

United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ALL our bones are jointed in such a way that movement is possible wherever two bones come together. Very free movement is found in some joints.

Nature has shown great ingenuity in giving freedom of motion, with security from displacement of one or both bones. To guard against trouble in joints, ligaments—made of tough but flexible material—are used in such a way as to act as perfect hinges.

A displacement of the bone and its partial or complete escape from the inclosure at the joint is called a "dislocation."

There can be no original dislocation without tearing of one or more of the ligaments. On this account an accident of this sort is always a painful thing. Pain is the first sign of trouble.

There are certain other symptoms which show that dislocation has taken place. For instance, the normal movement is impaired. Either the usual freedom of movement is reduced or the joint is almost fixed.

The next sign is deformity. The ordinary appearance of the joint is changed. When you compare it with the corresponding joint on the other side of the body it will be seen that something has gone wrong.

The sooner a dislocated joint is seen by a doctor the easier will it be for him to restore the bone to its place. When fluid has escaped into the tissues and swelling has begun, replacement is difficult.

On general principles it is unwise for amateurs to attempt to replace a dislocated joint. Usually it is better to apply cold water and wait for the surgeon. The parts should be placed in the most comfortable position which can be found and the cold applications continued till the doctor arrives.

The way a dislocated shoulder

may be reduced—to use the medical term—is something like this:

The victim lies on his back on the floor, or on the ground. You take off your shoe, sit down beside him and place your heel in the armpit of the damaged side. Then you pull the arm and press it across the body, using your heel as a fulcrum.

You see, this joint is a socket and the head of the bone has slipped out of the cavity. You are trying to pull the bone away from the edge of the crater, permitting it to slip back into place. If you succeed, it will fly back with a snap.

You must not be rough or exert undue effort. If you overdo you may break the bone and thus seriously aggravate the trouble.

Dislocation of one of the finger joints is more readily reduced because you can pull with one hand and manipulate the joint with the other.

When any dislocation has been overcome, the part must be put in a sling, or strapped in such a way as to prevent movement. This is done to permit the torn ligament to heal.

When a joint has once become dislocated the bone is liable to slip out again on slight provocation. Care must be exercised to prevent recurrence.

Home Making Helps

HANDKERCHIEFS are classed nowadays as so-called "hand-made" accessories.

The first notable new use for very finely embroidered handkerchiefs, woman's size, is to convert them into infant's caps. Wee gathered crowns are made of handkerchief linen, then the turn-back band, Quaker effect, is made of an embroidered handkerchief. Lined with dainty silk and finished with rosettes of baby ribbon, these little caps are charmingly dainty.

Little run-arounds, quaint sunbonnets and washable hats are also made of handkerchiefs. It takes three to make a bonnet or hat. The brim of the hat and round of the sunbonnet are composed of handkerchiefs, and where it is necessary to join the work, this is done by means of fine cat-stitching. The handkerchiefs are expensive, but to buy articles made from them is much more expensive than to buy handkerchiefs and make the articles at home, provided there is a clever needlewoman there to do the work.

Another use to which these very fine, filmy handkerchiefs are put is making collar-and-cuff sets of collars with jabots attached. These are dainty and not hard to make. Handkerchiefs with colored line or solid borders are also made into collar-and-cuff sets and the pleated collar and ruche are used down the front of plain, tailored blouses.

Tailored blouses made of handkerchief linen are very attractive, trimmed with handkerchiefs bordered in color. Pointed cuffs and collar of striped bands, oddly designed, trim some blouses, while others have the handkerchiefs accordion-pleated and used as ruffling. It takes four or even six handkerchiefs to supply enough of the bordering for ruffles. Even this is cheaper, however, than expensive embroidery, such as fine, filmy shirtwaists call for generally, especially the hand-made variety.

Nightgown bags or cases are made of men's fine, bordered handkerchiefs in envelope shape. It takes two to make a case in such a way that there will be border enough to run all the way around the edge. Where the point folds over, an initial may be embroidered in the color of the border. Some of the cases are also made of finely embroidered handkerchiefs for women. These are lined with dainty silk and the edges are lace-trimmed. It takes four handkerchiefs to make these dainty trifles, but they are fascinatingly pretty.

Under the glass bottom of a fine tray a handkerchief is often seen, put on diamond shape, then another handkerchief with its corners cut out is joined with embroidery stitches to the first handkerchief to give the effect of an eight-pointed dolly. Of course, only the filmy kinds are chosen for this use, but they are very attractive under the glass. As they are not exposed to the dust, these dollies do not have to be laundered so they grow creamy with exposure to light, which adds to their rich appearance.

Delicate, embroidered handkerchiefs, some made in Spain, others

Fashion Frills

THE WAISTLINE, which after all is approaching normal, is now likely to be outlined with a band of black. Some of the newer London frocks have a waistband of black velvet with long ends.

HELIOTROPE is so smart just now that lingerie is being made in this delightful shade. It is the more effective for a touch of embroidery in black.

REMINISCENCE of the scarf is found in many a sports fabric seen in New York. The wide and brilliant stripes have hitherto found their best expression in sports scarfs, but are now a matter of course for golf and country club materials. Black and white is still, however, very chic.

In France, make lovely cushion covers. The cushions are covered with delicately colored satin and have a ruffle of fine lace around the edge. The cushion may be in round, square, heart or rectangular shape. The handkerchief is put on with its points caught to follow the shape of the cushion. It is bordered with a little vine or wreath of silk or chiffon flowers, a ruching of lace or a ruching of gold or colored ribbon caught with single silk flowers, or with wee satin rosettes. Little satin-covered buttons may form trimming.

What Mothers Should Know

By DR. CHARLOTTE C. WEST

THE teeth have many functions to perform besides that of chewing food, important as this is. In the first place, timely eruption of the first teeth is necessary to the proper growth and development of the jaws and lower part of the face. Secondly, speech is to a large extent dependent upon a good, sound denture.

Children whose teeth are slow in appearing or are defective, never learn to pronounce some words correctly and speech defects are apt to become life habits. Take the two letters—"F" and "V"—alone, consider the number of words in everyday use containing them, and you can form a slight idea of how seriously a child's speech is affected who fails to pronounce these words correctly (thin, three, death, thrill, ruth, fin, free, deaf, roof, than, that, thine, van, vat, vine, and so forth).

Many parents do not think it at all necessary to look after the first or temporary teeth and one often sees children whose milk teeth are in a shocking state of decay. Now this condition is far-reaching in its bad effects. It interferes with the health of the second or permanent teeth, which, as they come down, absorb the first teeth.

Decayed teeth cannot perform their proper function of thoroughly chewing food, so digestion, which begins in the mouth, is seriously affected.

Every child should have a regular inspection twice yearly and be taught the value of brushing and the proper dental hygiene. Each child should be with his own brush and tooth powder. A box of bi-carbonate of soda and a soft camera's tooth brush is all that is needed to wash dislodges the food particles of food should be moved after eating. It should be taught that the composition of food causes decay. A soft camera's tooth brush is all that is needed to wash dislodges the food particles of food should be moved after eating. Supervision of Children's Play Can Be Overdone

By WM. A. McKEEVER,

Noted Lecturer and Authority on Educational and Sociological Subjects.

If you wish your child to acquire an inventive, adaptive mind, do not constantly supervise his play. Rather turn him loose in a given environment where there are various other children and see that he does nothing positively ill.

The overdirection of the activities of children on the typical supervised playground of today is calculated to make lazy dependent of our boys and girls. To the man of success and achievement life is a very complex affair and is fraught with constant changes and adaptations, calling for decision and initiative.

Now, if the growing boy is to have someone to think all his thoughts for him in advance and to plan all his ordinary acts for him where and how is he to learn independence of thought and action? It is a serious matter, this modern way we have of doing everything for the child and directing his every act. And mediocre character must necessarily result.

The world around us today is filled with dependents. Many of the people who wear fine clothes and appear happy and gay are, in fact, hiding a secret self-disappointment of not being privileged to think and act in their own right and on their own initiative. Much of this negation of life's possible joys and accomplishments dates back to an oversupervised childhood and youth, I feel sure.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

HAPPY JACK SQUIRREL was not in the least worried as he dodged this way and that way around the trunk of the big beech tree in the Green Forest to keep out of the claws of Redtail the Hawk. To Happy Jack it was a sort of game. It was an exciting game, and Happy Jack likes excitement once in a while, just as everybody else does. In that small gray head of his he had no doubt. He was positive that Redtail could not catch him, and that the danger was not as great as it looked to Mrs. Redtail, who was watching from their summer home in that very tree.

Not for a second did Happy Jack take his bright eyes from Redtail the Hawk. In this way he was ready for every move that Redtail made. But watching Redtail so closely gave him no chance to do anything else. So it was that he did not see Mrs. Redtail come sailing over the tree tops. She had heard Redtail's scream of anger and had come to see what it was all about. As she drew near she saw Redtail swoop, and at the same time her sharp eyes caught a glimpse of Happy Jack Squirrel as he dodged around the trunk of the tree.

Mrs. Redtail flew around to that side of the tree unseen by Happy Jack. But if she was unseen by Happy Jack, she was not so fortunate in regard to Mrs. Happy Jack. The latter saw her just as she made ready to swoop down at Happy Jack, and barked a warning.

Now, Happy Jack learned long ago that it is wisest to heed a warning first and find out what it is all about later. So he promptly dodged around the tree, and he did it just in time. Mrs. Redtail barely missed him as it was. But Redtail was where he could watch that side of the tree, and hardly was Happy Jack around there when Redtail swooped at him.

It was then that Happy Jack realized that this was no longer a game to be played for fun. It had become a game of life and death. It had been no trick at all to keep the trunk of that tree between himself and Redtail. But now, with Redtail watching one side and Mrs. Redtail watching the other, Happy Jack was in a tight place. To dodge one was to offer the other a chance. How Happy Jack did wish he hadn't been so foolish as to show himself to Redtail that morning!

It was a lucky thing for Happy Jack that beech tree had many branches. They were in the way of the great birds who were trying so hard to catch him. But even at that he had need of all his quickness to escape those dreadful claws. Time and again he barely escaped. He was beginning to get tired. He knew that the more tired he became the slower would be his movements.

Happy Jack was badly worried. Yes, sir, Happy Jack was a badly worried gray squirrel. He hadn't thought of having to dodge two. He was in one of the tightest places he ever had been in all his life.

A CURE FOR WORRY:—Be careful for nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.—Philippians 4: 6, 7.

The Study of English

Accuracy Both in Speaking and Writing Will Pay in Any Business Connection

By RUTH LEIGH

"ONE of the first things I study when I interview an applicant," said the employment manager of an electrical concern that pays high salaries to its office workers, "is her ability to speak the English language. I urge her to talk, so that I have an opportunity to note her grammar, her pronunciation, her vocabulary."

A shrewd system, this. Certainly, a good test of anyone's education and training is the ability to talk the English language—and talk it well.

A great many young women believe they speak the English language, when, as a matter of fact, their speech consists of a jargon of slang, mispronunciations and colloquialisms.

If I were a young woman who desired to get ahead in business, I should take a course in English before I attempted the study of any special line of work. I should learn to talk well and write well, and use this training as the basis of further study.

You need not use long words; you need not write stilted literary English. To command the respect and attention of those about you, it is essential that you talk accurately, pronounce correctly, and write clear, forceful English.

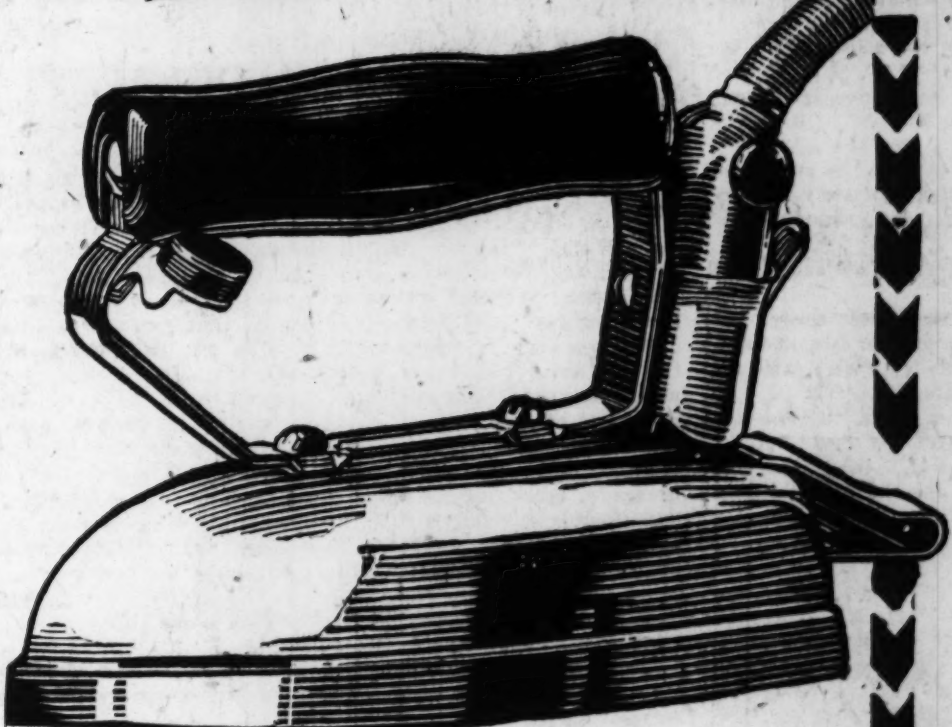

The girl who says: "Her and me," instead of "she and I," who tells you that "we seen" instead of "we saw," who says "woids" instead of "words," "kern" instead of "earn"—is immediately recognized as ignorant and illiterate.

It is particularly important for a stenographer to have a sound knowledge of English grammar. In fact, this need is almost too obvious for discussion.

Take an English course this fall, if nothing else, it will prove a sound business investment.

Great business builders know the value of sound sleep

In every field of business, successful executives are always ready to push and pay a premium for the man who is a "live wire."

Keen, forceful and wide-awake themselves, they want aids who are alert, energetic, able to hold any pace. They have no patience with drowsiness and like effects of poor or insufficient sleep.

A few exceptional men drive ahead without giving any thought to how they rest. More often than you suspect, however, it is worn-out, lumpy mattresses or noisy, sagging springs that rob ambitious men of the physical and mental energy they need to win.

No matter what the original cost of your bedding was, give it a thorough inspection tonight.

Then go to your furniture dealer's and compare the Simmons springs and mattresses he will show you in a wide range of styles and prices. Judge for yourself whether your bedding is helping or hindering your success.
